HEAVY BONDS ORDERED FOR 23 INDICTED IN PROBE OF LOTTERY RACKET OPERATIONS

CHINESE ABANDON DEFENSE TACTICS TO SMASH ATTACK

Reinforcements Poured

Northwest of the City.

FURTHER INVASION IN NORTH PUSHED

Nipponese Deny Troops Have Been Forced Back in Shantung Province; Nanking Again Bombed.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 22.—(Friday)
(AP)—What may be the decisive battle for Shanghai was raging today on all fronts of this area.

Intense fighting was going on to the northwest in the vicinity of Tazang, where the Japanese were throwing in their utmost offensive tactics and poured in reinforcements to engulf the Japanese in a powerful counter-offensive.

Repeated Chinese air raids throughout last night and early today kept the Japanese anti-aircraft guns in action and subjected the city to danger from shell fragments and shrapnel.

Japanese Exposed.
Chinese authorities said last night that 10,000 Japanese troops were in danger of being cut off from their base in heavy fighting at Wentsaoing creek, 12 miles northwest of Shanghai.

Forty thousand Chinese were reported driving from the Japanese against a wedge which the Japanese, seeking to capture Tazang, had driven into the Chinese front Tuesday. The Chinese said they hoped to complete encirclement of the Japanese before reinforcements could reach the latter.

Shanghai was rocked tonight by a two-hour artillery and aviation duel at the city's very doorstep.
Chinese took the offensive when their airplanes and gun batteries in Pootung bombarded Japanese shore positions and warships along the Whangpoo river. Japanese warships replied with heavy gunfire. Huge fires in Chapel, at the northern edge of the International Settlement, and Pootung, across the Whangpoo, further ravaged those stricken areas.

Japan Plans Invasion.
Tientsin dispatches reported Japan's North China command was making extensive preparations for further invasion of Shantung province, where Chinese reports said Japanese forces had been retiring northward recently under pressure by the forces of General Han Fu-chu,
the provincial governor.

Japanese denied there had been any retreat.

24 Planes Destroyed.
Chinese dispatches said a Chinese "dare-to-die" battalion raided a Japanese airbase at Yantai pingpao in North Shansi and destroyed 24 planes.

Two Germans Held In Russia as Spies

MOSCOW, Friday, Oct. 22.—
(UP)—Soviet authorities today arrested two alleged members of the Gestapo German secret service, who were accused of spying.
The accusations were the first concrete charges directed by the Soviet against the German secret police.

The men were Paul Zilverker and Erwin Klein. They were accused of entering the country as foreign tourists with false pas-ports under the names of Max Stultz and Josef Lessu.

'Tell the Truth,' Widow Beseeches After Girl Accuses Man She Killed

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 21.—
(AP)—Testimony at Margaret Drennan's murder trial closed on its most dramatic note today as Paul Reeves' widow pleaded from the witness box for the defendant, a 20-year-old secretarial student and expectant mother, to "tell the truth" for the sake of the Reeves' two children.

Just as Prosecutor Charles M.
Morris dismissed the attractive widow, called as a rebuttal witness, with a "that's all," Mrs.
Reeves arose and exclaimed:
"No, it's not all. Margaret please tell the truth. They have got to

ABANDONED NAME OF 'MONTY' CITED AS THAT OF BANDIT

Man Who Served Two Years for Roadhouse Holdup Unhesitatingly Names Montague as Pal.

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. Y., Oct.
21.—(AP)—The name that John Montague, Hollywood's golfer extraordinary, abandoned seven years ago, late today was ascribed by a victim to a member of a gang of robbers.

A few hours after Roger Norton, a confessed participant in the seven-year-old $7000 looting of Kin
Hana's roadhouse, pointed out
Montague as an accomplice, Mrs.
Hana, wife of the resort owner, testified one of the gang was addressed as "Verne."

The handsome, dimpled Montague has admitted he was once known as Laverne Moore, of Syracuse, N. Y., but has denied participation in the crime for which he is standing trial in a little mountain courtroom.

Mrs. Hana, who with her three pretty, fashionably dressed daughters, Doris, 17; Harriet, 20; and Naomi, 24, testified in quick succession, said one of the robbers called out "Verne, we better get out of here."

"Monty" Pointed Out.
Paul Poland, an employee of the roadhouse at the time of the robbery, pointed out Montague as the man he saw with Norton in a Jay (N. Y.) garage, near the Hana resort, a few nights before the holdup.

Without moving from the witness stand, and in a voice hardly audible to the jury, Norton unhesitatingly pointed toward Montague when State Prosecutor Thomas W. McDonald asked: "Do you see Laverne Moore in the courtroom?"

Opening Testimony.
Norton's testimony came on the

PRIME MINISTER OF BRITAIN RAPS SANCTIONS PLANS

Foreign Policy Assailed, Chamberlain Defends Position Toward Japan and Praises Italy for Move to Recall Troops.

LABORITES WAGE BITTER ATTACKS

Failure to Co-operate With U. S. in Attempt To End Far East Crisis
Is Charged in Debate.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain denounced talk of economic sanctions against Japan and commended Italy for her move to withdraw volunteers from Spain as he defended Great Britain's foreign policy tonight in the house of commons.

Concluding a bitter eight-hour debate on the opening day of parliament's assembly, in which Laborites accused the government of encouraging the Chinese-Japanese conflict by failure to stand by the League of Nations, the prime minister declared:

"Pending rejuvenation of the League, we have got to find practical means for restoring peace in the world."

Earlier in the debate, Sir Archibald Sinclair, leader of the opposition Liberals, condemned the government for failing to co-operate with the United States.

"Co-operation Asked."
"In the past, we have not been successful in obtaining that cooperation of the United States which is one of the dearest objects in the foreign policy of members of all parts of the house," Sir Archibald said.

"I say, let us not fail to seize this opportunity with both hands which President Roosevelt's speech has given us, this glorious opportunity of lining up with the United States to defend those ideals of peace and justice which are common to our two countries, France and all great democratic countries."

Sir Archibald recommended an appeal for mediation of the Chinese-Japanese conflict and if that failed that economic pressure must be prepared with sufficient force to make it effective.

"We cannot act alone," he declared. "The country that must

AFI, CIO TERMED PERIL TO PAY BILL

Rules Chairman Is Confident His Committee Will Report Measure.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(AP)— Chairman O'Connor, of the house rules committee, charged today that both the AFL and the CIO are "hurting the chances" of wage-hour legislation at the coming session of congress by statements criticizing the pending bill.

Engaged, himself, in an effort to extricate the measure from his committee, in which it was pic-niced last summer by a combination of Republicans and southern Democrats, the New Yorker added that he had been "embarrassed" by the attitudes of the two labor organizations.

"You don't give a man something he doesn't want," he said.
Chairman O'Connor expressed confidence that early in the special session called for November 15, the committee would reverse itself and report the measure for action by the house as a whole. Getting that done, he said, was a "matter of simple mathematics."

It was plain that he expected at least two members of the Republican-southern Democratic coalition which blocked the bill at the last session to switch to the other side of the argument. At least two must do so if the bill is to be reported out.

O'Connor was of the opinion today that this would be done.
The committee chairman said the CIO, and AFL statements to which he referred had been made since President Roosevelt called the special session of congress and

Garden Class Ends Annual Session Today

Designing Advice To Be Given by Mrs. Crown at Woman's Club.

By ANNIE LOU HARDY.
Amateur gardeners found both pleasure and profit in their return to classes yesterday at the second-day session of The Constitution's annual fall garden school under way at the Atlanta Woman's Club.
Having experienced the benefit derived from classes under the capable direction of Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crown, they flocked in eager hordes to hear her expound her topic for the day. Mrs. Crown has, it seems, given a new and happier interpretation to school days, and the capacity audience of the past two days will doubtless be duplicated this morning for the third and last lecture of the series.

Mrs. Crown has chosen as a subject for today, "Designing Your Own Garden," and she will instruct her listeners in the various

$105,427 PLEDGED FOR CHEST FUND, 2D RALLY SHOWS

Lagging Behind '36 Mark, Workers Promise Every Effort To Gain Ground, Assure Aid for Needy.

Calling full speed ahead as reports on the second day fell below the total subscriptions for the same period last year, workers in the Community Chest pledged every effort yesterday to win back the lost ground and assure adequate support for the city's needy.

Subscriptions of $29,761 were reported at the second noon meeting, bringing the total for the two-day period to $105,427.

Harry Sommers, general campaign chairman, met with the division leaders yesterday afternoon, and urged that every subscription be obtained and turned in at today's meeting, when the first half of the campaign will be brought to a close.

Critical Situation.
"We are facing a critical situation," he said, "because we know what the consequences of failure will be. It is hard to consider that Atlanta does not care as much for her unfortunate citizens as our neighboring cities."

"For years Birmingham, Louisville, and even tiny Richmond have raised far more money for this work than Atlanta, perhaps the need is not as great here. I have no way of knowing, but I do know that Atlanta has failed to provide the minimum amount needed for many years, and this has caused much suffering."

Former Atlanta Official Succeeds Fairfax Harrison as Head of Railway.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(AP)— Ernest E. Norris, senior vice president of the Southern Railway System, today was elected president, succeeding Fairfax Harrison, who rounded out 24 years of service as chief executive officer.

Harrison, 66, will continue with the Southern as chairman of the finance committee and a member of the board.

In an informal talk following his election, Norris said he was confident the railway transportation industry would solve its present problems.

Confident of Future.
"The railroads," he said, "face difficulties not essentially different from those facing other industries, and in my opinion they are not insoluble. It is a case of making enough income to meet the outgo.
We have to rely on regulatory authority on both sides of our problem, but I think it is generally recognized that the nation has to have railroads and that they

MRS. A. E. CALHOUN DIES AT RESIDENCE

Wife of Late Judge Had Been Ill Three Weeks;
Was Gifted Musician.

Mrs. Andrew E. Calhoun, wife of the late Judge Andrew E. Calhoun, died at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at her home, 108 Inman circle, following an illness of three weeks.

A prominent citizen in the social and cultural life of Atlanta for many years, Mrs. Calhoun had been a semi-invalid for approximately a year and had been forced, due to ill health, to give up a number of the contacts made in previous years.

A gifted musician herself, she devoted a great deal of her time and interests in musical circles in Atlanta. Following the death of her husband in 1925 she gave up many of her outside interests. She was an active member of the North Avenue Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Calhoun is survived by four sons, Dr. Abner W. Calhoun and James V. Calhoun, both of Atlanta; John H. Calhoun, of San Antonio, Texas, and Andrew B.
Calhoun, of South Carolina, and by five brothers, Colonel James V. Heidt, Little Rock; Colonel
Grayson V. Heidt, Lieutenant Colonel C. V. Heidt, of New Haven, Conn.; John V. Heidt and E. V.
Heidt.

She is also survived by four granddaughters, Misses Margaret Anne and Martha Caroline Calhoun, daughters of Mr. and Mrs.
John H. Calhoun, and Misses Gloria and Mary Calhoun, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew B.
Calhoun.

Funeral services, in charge of Patterson & Son, will probably be conducted tomorrow morning.

Club Members Launch

Unsanitary Conditions.

A war against trash and unsan-er Atlanta was launched yesterday by 10,000 clubwomen.

Their weapons are to be cooperation and education in sanitary matters and the 10,000 club-women are inviting the help of every housewife in Greater Atlanta in the battle.

H. J. Cates, head of the city sanitary department, yesterday promised co-operation to representatives of more than a dozen clubs who met at the home of Mrs. James R. Little, president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, to map initial plans.

Co-operation Asked.
"Clean up vacant lots, learn the routine of your trash and garbage collector and co-operate with him in removing garbage rapidly, and help keep the city clean and beautiful," was the expression of the clubwomen.

Cates told the representatives and housewives that first in importance in cleaning up a big city is collecting and disposal of garbage, next is keeping the streets

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—While the official itinerary of the Duke first time today that Atlanta has tentatively been selected as one of the group of cities the former British king and his American

Announcement of the American itinerary of the royal couple, who are scheduled to arrive in New

THOMAS TO RETAIN BUG JURISDICTION

Judge Varies Custom of Presentments Prepared.

Twenty-three lottery indictments were returned by the Fulton county grand jury yesterday, which immediately cleared the way for an exhaustive inquiry into reported "pay-offs" to law enforcement officers.

Bench warrants for the arrest of those indicted were issued and bonds of $5,000 were set.

Special Prosecutor E. E. Andrews announced plans for the grand investigation after the grand jurors ended their 60-day probe into the lottery racket. One white woman was included in those indicted by the grand jury.

Prosecutor Andrews last night said:

"This 'pay-off' practice, which has been repeatedly reported during our probe of the bug, is even more pernicious than any of the rackets which we have probed.
We propose to go to the very bottom of the matter. If true, it is a cancer which must be eradicated by immediate operation of legal processes."

Atlanta Indicted.

Those indicted included 20 white men, a white woman and two negroes as follows: Mercer J.
Harbin, Robert H. (Bob) Hogg,
Mrs. Helen Billingsley, Walter Cutcliffe, J. F. (Flem) King, Cecil

tion of the cases despite a general custom of sending misdemeanor cases to the criminal court of Atlanta, Andrews, under this arrangement, will prosecute the cases in the superior court.

Special presentments, prepared by the grand jury, will be made public until they have been presented to Judge Thomas in open night. Judge Thomas had left the courthouse late yesterday for the day.

IST CLIMBS TO 12 FOR COUNTY RACE

Political Decks Cleared for Campaign; Withdrawal of Some Forecast.

Election of a state senator out of the way, Fulton county political decks were cleared yesterday to make way for the 12-man race for the vacancy on the county commission.

Star Peck, Atlanta attorney from the Buckhead district, and William D. Newman, Center Hill district real estate man, qualified with the county ordinary yesterday, bringing to an even dozen political aspirants for the vacancy to be filled by voters November 9.

More Activity Seen. While the number of candidates has been increasing daily, well-informed sources at the courthouse said that the lull in activity caused by the senate election Wednesday will be followed by increased activity by various political cliques.

Efforts will be made to narrow down the number of candidates in the race in order to swing the courthouse vote solidly behind one fourth side candidate.

At present, the courthouse vote is split between two candidates, Troy G. Chastain and Edgar Craighead, with a third, Nelson T. Spratt, certain to get a portion also, political observers said.

However, political undercurrents yesterday were carrying the vote in the direction of Chastain, courthouse political sources indicated. Although more candidates are expected to register before the Saturday noon deadline, several are certain to drop out before election day, it was said.

"Feared Reported." Political observers said that various cliques feared the strength of north side candidates in the race might result in such a scattered vote that courthouse "favorites" would be endangered. Dr. C. W. Childs, Thomas Croom Partridge and C. O. Johnson were talked as strong north side candidates. Others in the race from the north side are R. T. Dutton and Leo A. Sullivan. The south side is represented by two candidates, T. M. Middlebrook and R. H. Everett.

Meanwhile, candidates in the race were launching serious campaigns. R. T. Dutton, Atlanta attorney from the Buckhead district, will speak at 2 o'clock tomorrow on "Taxation and Excessive Spending of County Funds." Dutton said that he would speak at the old Alpharetta courthouse.

Hospital Made Shrine

As Tribute to Hitler

PASEWALK, POMERANIA, Germany, Oct. 21.—(AP)—A field hospital here in which Adolf Hitler 19 years ago recovered from blindness—result of being gassed on the Ypres front—was dedicated today as a national memorial.

Hitler in his autobiography "Mein Kampf," relates that it was at Pasewalk that he heard of the armistice and the revolution in Germany. This, he said, was the darkest day since the burial of his mother, and it made him determine to go into politics.

COMMITTEE TO STUDY SPEEDING OF COUNCIL

A three-man committee to study the feasibility of reducing the number of council committees in an effort to speed up city legislation was appointed yesterday by Mayor Hartsfield.

Councilman C. M. (Mac) Bolen, sponsor of the committee reduction, was named chairman, with Alderman Ed A. Gilliam and Councilman Frank Wilson serving with him. Bolen advanced the idea last week in council, advocating merging of several committees to increase efficiency of the legislating body.

ATLANTA ON LIST FOR WINDSOR TRIP

Bedeaux message listed the Techwood and University projects, pointing out that the former was the first undertaken under the new federal program and is one of the most successful in the country.

From the exchange of cables thus revealed it is obvious that the much-talked-of royal couple, figures in the greatest romance of modern times—the self-exiled Edward VIII and the Baltimore-born Wallis Warfield, are thinking in terms of a visit to the United States being incomplete without a sojourn to the Georgia capital.

Whether Atlanta will be on the final itinerary, however, will not be known definitely until the list of cities is announced in Paris Monday by Bedeaux.

Palmer Discusses Visit.

In the meantime, with a view to co-ordinating the several invitations already extended the Windsors by Governor Rivers, Mayor Hartsfield and Chairman George B. Hamilton, of the newly created state housing authority, C. F. (Chuck) Palmer, of Atlanta, president-designate of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, conferred here today with Interior department officials over the prospective visit of the couple.

Acting on behalf of the present president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, Eugene Harrington, Palmer, who is the original sponsor of the Techwood project and a recognized authority on national housing problems, left tonight for New York, where he is expected to hold a further conference with George Link Jr., American attorney for Bedeaux, who is handling personal arrangements for the visit.

If the Duke and Duchess are in fact to go to Atlanta, Palmer will seek to ascertain their wishes as regards a program for their stay in the city. Despite the fact they are coming on a personal tour, with no official aspect connected with it, their presence will be certain to attract official attention wherever they appear.

Arriving in New York November 11 on board the S. S. Bremen,

Gasless Buggy Aids Training Schedule

Home runs are a specialty for "Sheriff" Dave Harris, former Cracker star, but yesterday his run from home to work was balked.

Harris, turnkey on the police force, pushed his auto, which he found wouldn't start without gasoline, two blocks to a filling station, obtained fuel and arrived at work several minutes late.

"The early training should do me good," Harris said.

The Windsors, according to the tentative schedule, plan to remain in the metropolis for a few days before coming on to Washington November 15. Present indications are that the Atlanta visit, if it materializes, will take place a few days later, probably around November 18 or 20, it was suggested.

But as to this nothing definite can be stated until Mr. Bedeaux's announcement of the official itinerary is made.

The only other American cities which are known to be under definite consideration as part of the tour in addition to Atlanta and New York, already mentioned, are New Francisco, Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo, Dallas, Atlantic City, Milwaukee and, quite naturally, Baltimore, with the possibility of the list being extended to Charleston, Columbia, Montgomery, New Orleans, and Miami in the south.

Governor Rivers, Mayor Hartsfield and Chairman Hamilton, who is also state treasurer, wired invitations to the Windsors to visit Atlanta at the time it was first indicated that the tour of the United States might include the southern territory. So far as known nothing definite has yet been received in reply.

BURGLAR LEAVES DEFY AFTER STEALING $20

"The Grafting Gang" ransacked the Loeb-Apte Company offices at 15 Produce Row yesterday and stole merchandise valued at $20.

WIDOW BEGS GIRL TO 'TELL THE TRUTH'

and so took her father's revolver for protection when she went to Reeves' home to tell him about it.

Twice the defendant stood steadily in front of the jury box and pointed a pistol at the prosecutor to demonstrate her position when she killed Reeves. Testimony of other witnesses placed his two children in an adjoining bedroom and Mrs. Reeves at the theater at the time.

As Mrs. Reeves shouted to the defendant today to "tell the truth" there arose above the ensuing hub-bub the voice of the widow's mother, Mrs. John Houliroy, sobbing from the second row of spectators, "Myra, oh, Myra."

Widow Faints.

Mrs. Reeves disappeared in the passageway behind the jury box and fainted in the arms of a court attendant. Miss Drennan went to the hospital room of Middlesex county jail where the warden said she complained of a headache.

The case will go to a jury of 11 men and one woman tomorrow after the lawyers' summations and Judge Adrian Lyon's charge.

Miss Drennan never wavered from her story that Reeves represented himself to her first as a single man named Jack Lyons, behaved "like a gentleman" until an automobile ride on August 7 when she said he attacked her, then told her his real name and threatened to kill her if she told anyone.

Had Seen Mrs. Reeves.

Miss Drennan told "Prosecutor" Morris she had seen Mrs. Reeves "around town" but did not know her by name. Mrs. Reeves said she was accompanied by her husband when she met Miss Drennan.

Miss Drennan said as she entered the Reeves home September 7, "I saw him sitting nude on the couch."

"I no sooner saw him than he jumped right at me, and he held me so very tight around my body up near my chest. It was awful."

opening day of testimony before an all-male jury which also heard Kin Hana, bespectacled Japanese proprietor of the roadhouse. In broken English Hana gave a detailed account of what happened near Jay, New York, the August night in 1930 when he and members of his family were bound and gagged while three men stripped their pockets and a safe of approximately $700.

He said his assailants were masked. Montague, wearing a conservative grey suit, kept his eyes directly on the witness chair throughout most of the day. The courtroom was filled. Women were in the majority.

Offers to Testify. Norton, who came here voluntarily to testify against Montague, said that he and Laverne Moore met William Carleton and John Sherry at Mechanicville, N. Y., the night of the crime and proceeded in two automobiles to the roadhouse nearly 100 miles north. He remained outside, the witness said, while the other three entered.

destroyed 24 planes at a cost of 100 men killed. Fifteen Japanese heavy bombing planes attacked the extreme northern and southern portions of Nanking without inflicting important military damage. Chinese airplane squadrons moving to attack the Japanese near Shanghai took new routes today to avoid flying over foreign areas. This followed a protest to the Nanking government by United States Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson.

Chinese Airmen Warned. A Nanking foreign office spokesman said Chinese airmen had received fresh orders to take every precaution to safeguard the foreign areas. (In Tokyo it was announced the Japanese government had received an invitation to the Brussels conference October 30 of signatories to the nine-power treaty of 1922. The Japanese government studied the question of acceptance or rejection.)

Girl, 12, Marriage Void, Ordered Back to Class

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 21. (AP)—Mary Lee Earl, 12, who quit second grade studies to become the sixth wife of a carpenter 37 years her senior, is going back to school again as a single girl. Juvenile Court Referee Lillian P. McDermott, who declared the marriage "automatically void" under an Arkansas law fixing 14 as the minimum age at which females may wed, said she would place Mary Lee in a church school in the state. Mary Lee became the bride of O. D. Parker, 49, at nearby Benton two weeks ago.

Officials announced today that the keel of the 35,000-ton super-dreadnaught North Carolina will be laid then at the New York navy yard.

Construction of a sister ship, the Washington, to be built at the Philadelphia navy yard from the same plans, is scheduled to start early next year.

I'M BUMPER! I'M DELICIOUS! INEXPENSIVE AND NUTRITIOUS!

Some people are inclined to believe that an apple is just an apple—regardless. But like everything else, there are good apples and bad apples. Scientists say that the soil and climate in the Appalachian area is responsible for the extra goodness you find in apples that hail from there. The grand thing about these apples is that—besides being juicy and delicious—they are good for you. A fine source of vitamins A, B, C and G; and body-building minerals: calcium, iron, phosphorus and magnesium. You'll find life more enjoyable with an apple a day... raw or cooked. Ask specifically for apples from the Appalachians. At your market or fruit store.

BRITISH MINISTER ASSAILS SANCTIONS

Take the lead, as the speeches of Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Stimson have shown, must be the United States with her immense interests in the Far East and without our preoccupations in Europe.

"But I do beg that the government make it clear that if the United States will act, then we ought to stand by them and act with them."

Clement R. Attlee, leader of the Labor opposition, also argued for economic pressure against Japan.

In the house of lords, meanwhile, Lord Snell, leader of the Labor party there, urged Britain and the United States to bring economic pressure to bear on Japan.

Besides Prime Minister Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden also complimented Italy in the house of commons for the concessions she made yesterday in the campaign for ending intervention in Spain.

The fall of Gijon to Spanish insurgents tonight thrust Europe's non-intervention machinery into a race to withdraw foreign "volunteers" from Spain before Insurgent Generalissimo Franco's legions threaten a complete conquest.

British foreign office experts labored to perfect details of the withdrawal scheme based on yesterday's Italo-German compromise in time for tomorrow's meeting of the nine-power non-intervention subcommittee.

It is proposed that a commission go to Spain to determine the manner of removing volunteers from the Spanish civil war—in which Italy has semi-officially admitted at least 40,000 black-shirt troops are fighting with Franco.

Tension Slackens.

That Europe's tension over the Spanish crisis has slackened was indicated by Foreign Secretary Eden who, addressing the fall opening of the house of commons, thanked Italy for her "eleventh hour" but "very welcome" contribution to Spanish non-intervention.

Eden, in the foreign affairs debate, however, reaffirmed Britain's determination to permit no challenge to her "right of way" through the Mediterranean—her sea link with her colonies.

Though Great Britain and France have avoided at least temporarily a showdown with the Rome-Berlin axis on Spain's civil war, the foreign secretary made it clear in parliament that the British government firmly intends to see that conflict become a purely Spanish matter.

He stated unequivocally that Britain wants no sides taken in Spain, but "there will be no indifference on the part of the British government where it is clear that vital British interests are concerned"—(such as keeping the Mediterranean open.)

Charles Andre Corbin, ambassador to London, was instructed to announce before tomorrow's meeting of the non-intervention committee that France has abandoned her demands for a "proportionate" withdrawal.

The proportionate recall of volunteers had been sought on the basis of French contentions that there are about 60,000 Italian Black Shirt volunteers serving with the Insurgents whereas the Loyalists have only about 25,000 foreign mercenaries.

Maximum Sentences. If maximum sentences of $1,000 fine and a year on the gang is meted out on all five counts of the indictments, each of the 23 defendants faces fines of $5,000 and five years' imprisonment.

Hogg, Cutcliffe, Johnson and Mills are indicted jointly; another joint indictment contains the names of all the Hall men; and others name Harbin and Cassels; Parks and Bearden; Pritchett and Mrs. Billingsley, and Shorter and Scott.

Indicted individually but also on five counts each are House, King, Moore, Shaw, Hazelrig and Carter.

Graft Probe Wanted.

The special presentments, scheduled for presentation to the court this morning, will ask that the incoming grand jury "delve to the very bottom of reported grafting by law enforcement officers," it was reported yesterday.

The presentments, reports indicated, will relate how it was thought advisable to single out the lottery quiz because it seemed the logical thing to do, but will urge the new grand jury to consider "an even greater evil than rackets, the reported pay-off of enforcement officers, who are said to have given protection to racketeers."

Andrews last night characterized the alleged pay-offs "as far more important than any other matter now facing the prosecutor's office, because no organized racket can exist without police protection and we have evidence conclusive that such rackets did exist and others are here."

Mrs. Ethel Ransom Renews Her Appeal.

With 23 so-called "big shots" in the lottery racket indicted and facing trial, Mrs. Ethel Ransom, twice convicted for "bug" operations, filed an appeal for a new trial yesterday in Fulton superior court.

Mrs. Ransom, identified with the indicted "higher ups," was convicted several months ago and sentenced to 12 months at the state prison. Granted a new trial, she was again convicted recently and given 12 months straight with an additional fine of $1,000.

Her attorney, Swift Tyler, filed another appeal yesterday. Mrs. Ransom, in the meantime, is at liberty on a $3,000 appeal bond. Mrs. Ransom is the widow of Nick Ransom, killed in a gunfight last year in a Decatur street bondsmen's office.

another company. Mrs. Billingsley's husband, V. H. Billingsley, was killed in a shooting affray which took place several months ago in a bond office within the very shadow of the Atlanta police station.

Cutcliffe is an alleged partner of Hogg in the bug business. He, too, is engaged in several regular business undertakings.

Previous Connections.

King is said to head the Manhattan company, a lottery outfit, and has fallen afoul of the law in previous years because of liquor sales, as has Cutcliffe.

House owned one of the companies, according to the allegations, and Moore is accused of operating a company in the vicinity of Tenth street.

The Hall men, according to reports, arose to prominence in lottery operations overnight, when they are said to have paid off on "hot" numbers, when their opposition welshed because of the large losses they would have sustained.

Shaw, a reputed bootlegger, figured several days ago in a hi-jacking probe launched by the grand jury as a side issue to the bug investigation. Several days after he made the accusation against alleged hi-jackers, he was apprehended by federal agents with a load of liquor in Walton county.

Hazelrig is a former druggist and last year killed an escaped convict, who attempted to hold him up.

"We are all proud of being Atlanta citizens, we believe in the city that is our home," he said. "We plan to live here and raise our families. We want to make it a good city to live in."

"A lot of people live here who cannot care for themselves. They are our responsibility because they are our own people."

"The devoted workers in this Chest campaign are giving their time to serve these people, as well as making their own subscriptions. It is often a personal sacrifice to them, but it is no more their responsibility than it is the responsibility of each of us who are citizens."

It seems to me that those of us who cannot give our time can at least make more generous subscriptions. Generous subscriptions are the only thing that will head off another failure, with consequent suffering to many people."

Techwood Flooded By New Applications

The "no vacancy" sign on the Techwood apartments means nothing to most people, K. S. McAllister, housing manager, declared yesterday as he went through stacks of new applications from prospective tenants for the low-cost government housing project.

Of the 4,903 applications received to date, 989 have been certified, 612 not certified and 333 uncertified eligible reserve. Techwood has 604 apartments, housing 1,900 people. They have all been filled since last August.

RANSOM BILL FOUND IN ROSS KIDNAPING

Freight Clerk Finds $10 Note, Screams, Hurries To U. S. Agents.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The finding of one of the ransom bills gave federal agents a fresh clue to the kidnapers of Charles S. Ross today.

The $10 bill—one of the 5,250 notes which made up the $50,000 ransom paid in a vain attempt to gain the release of the retired manufacturer—was discovered by Mrs. Clara Ludwig, 41, a clerk in the freight offices of the Rock Island railroad.

WINSLOW, Ark., Oct. 21.—(AP)—John Innis found a black snake that carried its winter cold remedy around with it.

Mrs. Ludwig said that as she prepared to depart on a shopping expedition late in the morning she checked the number—G2761553A—against a published list of the serial numbers of the ransom currency. She found she had one of the bills and screamed. She hurried to a conference with government operatives.

Ross' protracted absence has strengthened the belief he died or was slain.

The conjectures of death, the ransom trickery and the tracing of the money brought out a striking parallel between the Ross case and the Lindbergh tragedy.

NURSE RISKS LIFE TO SAVE INFANT

Defies Would-Be Kidnapers Who Sought To Abduct Official's Child.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Heavily-armed police tonight sought two gunmen who failed in a bold attempt to kidnap the infant son of Louis W. Capelli, Rhode Island secretary of state.

The men, wearing smoked glasses, fled in a green automobile, after assaulting and threatening to "plug" the child's nursemaid, Mrs. Mary Carbel, if she refused to disclose the whereabouts of the year-and-a-half-old boy.

The nursemaid told police the men approached her while she was hanging out clothes in the rear of the Capelli home and demanded to know where they could locate the child.

When she refused to tell, she said, one of the men, waving a pistol, grabbed her arm, tore the front of her dress and slapped her face while his accomplice exhorted him to "plug" her.

The would-be kidnapers missed the child by a few minutes. The daughters of the nursemaid had just left the Capelli home to take the boy for an airing.

A Graphic History of America for You

Here is the History of our America in a form you have never before seen—a Histo-Graph from the earliest Viking voyagers to the latest supreme court decision in 1937.

You see history at a glance by association of one event with another.

On a single large sheet, the story of every square mile of territory in America is portrayed with a graphic picture of how each state was formed; the story of the early explorations and discoveries; the formation of the 13 colonies; acquisitions of territory, and winning of the west. It is packed with statistics of population for each census; state capitals and areas, political changes, thumb-nail biographies and national events during the administration of each President; the rise of industrialism, mass production, literature, art, science, invention and political history; constitutional amendments, and origins of the earliest American cities in each state.

The Histo-Graph is to history what maps are to geography, or what blueprints are to the architect. At a glance you can locate any principal event in American history, and in the margin find out what was going on at the same time in Europe.

RAILROADS IN SOUTH
ASK FARE INCREASE FOR COACH TRAVELOne-Way Rate Would Be Boosted to Two Cents a Mile.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(P)—The Southeastern Passenger Association, composed of railroad officials, announced today it had asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve an increase in one-way coach fares from 1-1/2 to 2 cents a mile, effective November 1.

The new schedules cover carriers operating in the region south of the Ohio and Potomac rivers, and east of the Mississippi.

The commission has made no acknowledgment of the petition.

Limitation Waiver Asked.
The new tariffs were accompanied, it was said, by a request that the usual 30-day limitation be waived, and the new schedules be permitted to go into effect on shorter notice.

C. D. Rhodes, chairman of the association, said he was unable to estimate the amount of additional revenue expected from the boost. Rail officials expressed confidence that the higher charges would be approved, pointing to existing commission orders allowing a maximum charge of 2 cents a mile. The southern roads have been operating on a 1-1/2-cent experimental charge since 1933.

Pullman Increase.
Southern and western roads increased Pullman fares from 2 to 2 1/4 cents on October 19.

Class 1 carriers of the nation have asked the commission for an increase in freight rates.

Should the commission grant the "Spirit" Moves Congresswoman in Speaking increases asked, the roads would receive about $54,000,000 annually on the basis of last year's traffic. But on the present increased volume of traffic, experts estimate the return would be between $70,000,000 and $75,000,000.

SOUTHWEST SEEKS RATE INVESTIGATION

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 21.—(P)—Freight rate experts of Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma recommended today that the Interstate Commerce Commission include six southwestern states in a rate structure investigation asked by southeastern governors.

The report asked that Governor Bailey recommend to the governors and railroad commissions of Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and Arkansas that petitions be filed with the I. C. C. requesting that the regulatory body broaden its hearing in the southeast to include rates of the southwest or institute separate proceedings of the same nature embracing the southwest.

FEDERAL CONTROL
SEEN FOR FUTURE'Good Old Days' Gone, Says
TVA Chairman.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 21.—(P)—A prediction that in 50 years hence "the great difference between radical and conservative governments will not be in what they do, but will be in the manner of doing it," was made today by Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority. To those who long for a return to "the good old days when government knew its place and kept it," the TVA chairman declared that "fate, circumstance and destiny" are driving the nations of the world toward increasing control by government; that there is no longer a choice of going back to the old order and that "what we have to decide" is "the way in which we are going to perform the widening functions of government."

ganzations and charity work. She said:

"From doing a great deal of this type of work it was only natural that I should eventually get into political life. The fact that I am a Democrat and that I was on the state board of charities for years and years naturally led on to other public duties."

Mrs. O'Day said that she did not believe America would go into another war or engage in any foreign disputes. "I have heard too many members of congress say many times that they would never vote to go into another war."

Changing from the subject of war, she said:

"Though it seems I am somewhat against the people I like the best. I am strongly in favor of the anti-lynching bill and for the wage and hour bill."

"Democrats are certainly in their heaven here, aren't they? Often when I meet a woman in upstate New York and tell her that I am a Democrat she looks at me in astonishment and says 'Oh, not really!' But we have our viewpoint, too, don't we?"

As to whom the next Democratic nominee for President will be, Mrs. O'Day professed ignorance, but she doesn't believe we'll have a woman for President for many years to come.

The most amusing incident of her trip so far, Mrs. O'Day said, was the disappointment felt by her Irish chauffeur, "Patrick," at seeing Georgia, which he had somehow imagined would look like a tropical island.

Her trip cut short, Mrs. O'Day will not have the pleasure of visiting her old home at Perry, Ga., but will visit Lucy Cobb at Athens, returning to Atlanta Monday night to board the plane for New York city.

Ormsby-Gore Reiterates
England to Go Ahead.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—(P)—Renewed terrorist violence was reported from Palestine today as the secretary of state for colonial affairs, William G. Ormsby-Gore, told the house of commons Britain intended to go ahead with the plan for a three-way partition of the Holy Land.

Dispatches from Jerusalem told of new attacks at the Lydda airport, where severe punitive measures had been taken by the government following the burning of sheds a few nights ago. The Iraq oil pipeline was again punctured by shots near Beisan.

Police were hunting the assailants of Avinoam Yellin, Cambridge-educated senior inspector of Jewish schools in the department of education, who was shot and critically wounded today as he was entering his Mount Zion office beside the old city wall.

In the Jaffa-Jerusalem road near Motza daylight ambushers attacked a Jewish bus with a fusillade of shots. Four Jews were injured by flying glass.

Crack Speller in 1876
Reaps Reward in 1937

NASHVILLE, Oct. 21.—(P)—First prize in a grammar school spelling bee 61 years ago has had its reward for a Cannon county farm woman.

Applying for an old-age pension with the necessity of proving her age above 65, the woman could present neither a birth certificate nor a family Bible with the information.

But today the state welfare department received what Director Roy L. Garis ruled was sufficient proof.

It was a letter from the principal of a grammar school—written October 10, 1876—congratulating her on winning a third grade spelling bee.

should be treated in a manner to promote efficient service." Norris, a veteran railroader, referred to Harrison as my "illustrious" predecessor, and said "you can put that in capital letters."

Born in Hoopston, Ill., 55 years ago, Norris started his railroad career with the Chicago & North-western and came to the Southern in 1905 as special agent and car-tracer. He became successful trainmaster at Norfolk, assistant superintendent at Knoxville, superintendent of the Atlanta division and general superintendent. In 1917 he was appointed assistant to the president, and in 1933 he was elected vice president in charge of operations.

"Bright Spots."

Norris spoke of conditions in southern territory as reasonably favorable considering the general let down in business. Southern's traffic was running slightly under a year ago, but he pointed to a few "bright spots," including a little improvement in the textile trade after several months of extreme quiet, and continued activity in the steel-making district at Birmingham, Ala.

The unexpectedly large increase in this season's cotton crop would help to boost the Southern's traffic, he said, although admitting that the recent sharp decline in the price of cotton had probably had some adverse effect on general trade conditions in the south.

NEW EXECUTIVE
ONCE LIVED HERE

Ernest E. Norris, named president of the Southern Railway System in New York yesterday, was superintendent of the Atlanta division of the Southern railroad and general superintendent from 1907 to 1917 and has frequently visited Atlanta since in official capacities. Local Southern officials said they anticipated no change in operating personnel here as a result of the promotion of Norris. Changes in personnel probably will be released after today, they said.

AFL, CIO IMPERIL PAY BILL—O'CONNOR

delivered his last fireside chat on Tuesday of last week.

In addressing the CIO conference in Atlantic City on Friday, John L. Lewis, head of the organization referred to the bill as "that poor, halting wages and hours bill that finally emerged from the committee."

In convention in Denver on Wednesday, the AFL approved a committee report criticizing aspects of the measure on the ground, among others, that it constituted an intrusion upon the right of workers to improve their economic condition by collective bargaining through labor unions. "If such a law were to be enacted it would establish the principle in American government that the fixing of wages was a natural and proper function of politicians and lawmakers," the report said.

DIXIE WAGE-HOUR VOTE
MAY AID RATE FIGHT

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 21.—(AP)—The south's congressional vote on the wage-hour bill was projected today as a potential hammer to beat down regional freight rate differentials that Dixie leaders blame for "strangling" southern industrial growth.

Wage and hour legislation is expected to be one of the principal matters before the special congress convening November 15. Its failure to pass at the last session was attributed largely to opposition of a strong southern bloc.

Proposal "Discussed."

First word a group of the south's representatives might vote for the wage-hour bill if given assurance of "equalized freight rates" came from Representative Patrick, Democrat, Alabama, in Montgomery today when he said there had been "discussions" of such a proposal among southern congressmen.

It was understood a high Alabama official favored the plan, but indications were that it had not yet been discussed widely in the south.

At his home in Jasper, Ala., Speaker William B. Bankhead, already making plans for the special session, said he had heard nothing of the proposed "swap."

He stated he thought both the wage-hour bill and the reduction of freight rates should be determined on their own merits. He expressed confidence a wage-hour bill would be passed.

Nine southeastern governors, headed by Alabama's Bibb Graves, have petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission asking a reduction of rates from the south to the midwest.

The New England Traffic League, created after the proposal for reducing rates in Dixie was made by the governors, said recently New England's only present ability to compete against southern and foreign competition lay in its more favorable freight rail rates.

Dixie Rates Higher.

Graves estimated freight rates in the south are 25 to 30 per cent higher than in the north and eastern territory. The lower northern rates are prescribed by the I. C. C., largely due to the traffic density of that area which some rate experts contend contributes to lower operating costs to railroads in movement of freight.

Some southern leaders contend the higher freight tariffs put the south

Strains of 'Adeline' May Ring in Council

City employees are going to raise their voices in song when council holds its first meeting next January.

Because Mayor Hartsfield is a music lover, Clifford Skipper, employee in the water department, is organizing male and female quartets and a mixed chorus to offer a program of songs at the first 1938 council session. Skipper is arranging practices for the amateur singers in the city government.

In an unfair competitive position with industry in other regions.

Representative Lister Hill, a candidate for the senate from Alabama, said: "I favor both wage-hour legislation and removal of freight rate discrimination against the south. Passage of a wage-hour bill will be a tremendous leverage toward bringing about abolition of 'discriminatory rates,'" he said. He declared he believed the national administration feels the south is a victim on discrimination.

Senator K. D. McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, called attention to his amendment to the wage-hour bill which he said requires the board that administers the act, if passed, to take into consideration differences in freight rates when fixing wages.

GEORGIANS UNSYMPATHETIC WITH PATRICK PROPOSAL

A suggestion that the south's congressional vote on the wage-hour bill be used to obtain freight rate parity with other sections of the nation struck an unresponsive chord yesterday in Georgia's senators.

Senator Walter F. George said the proposal—brought forward at Montgomery, Ala., by Representative Luther Patrick, of Birmingham—was "wholly impractical," and that he had heard nothing of it.

Senator Richard B. Russell Jr. said the plan was "entirely new to me" and that he did not see how a binding agreement could be reached on the two subjects, since the matter of freight rates was not, in a strict sense, within the jurisdiction of congress.

Political circles here said any "trade" on the wage-hour bill probably would involve the crop control program to come before congress, rather than the freight rate differential fight.

Governor Rivers, one of the southeastern Governors seeking freight rate parity, said he had not heard of the proposal advanced by Patrick and had no comment to make.

GIJON SURRENDERS TO REBEL LEGIONS

fore any material number of foreign volunteers could be withdrawn under the London Non-Intervention Committee's plan. It has been Franco's hope to end the 15-month-old civil war before winter makes operations difficult.

With the announcement of the fall of Gijon, Franco took the first step toward establishment of a new civil government under his rule by creation of a national council of the Falange or State party.

Council Members.

Members of the council, modeled on the Fascist grand council in Italy, included Pilar Primo de Rivera, daughter of the former Spanish dictator, Manuel Falco, former chief of the disbanded Carlist party and Generals Gonzales Queipo de Llano, Fidel Davila and Jose Monasterio.

Official insurgent dispatches said Delarmino Tomas, anarchist governor of Gijon, had been captured by insurgent warships lying in wait outside the harbor when he attempted to escape to France with hundreds of other officials and military leaders. All were said to have been taken to Santander, questioned and imprisoned.

REBELS AT MADRID
CELEBRATE GIJON FALL

MADRID, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Spanish insurgents besieging Madrid noisily celebrated tonight the fall of Gijon to Generalissimo Franco's columns.

Their artillery batteries, only three miles distant, poured more than 2,500 shells into the center of the city in little more than an hour. It was one of the severest bombardments of the whole 11-month siege.

The center of the city was shaken badly. About 800 shells scored direct hits there, causing extensive damage. It was thought, however, there would be small loss of life since most people were asleep.

INSURGENTS CAPTURE
SEAPORT OF AVILES

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Friday, Oct. 22.—(UP)—Jubilant insurgent columns were reported early today to have captured the Biscay seaport of Aviles and to be driving 70,000 Asturian Loyalists into a bottle-neck trap where they face wholesale slaughter.

The panicky Asturians, stumbling across the Cantabrian mountains toward the sea, are all that remain of Loyalist resistance in northwest Spain and their entrapment will end the war along the Biscay coast.

CLEANER ATLANTA SOUGHT BY WOMEN

clean and third is abatement of smoke.

"Your garbage can is actually the most important piece of furniture in your household," he said. "Your grand piano may be pleasing to see and hear, but your health and the health of your neighbor may depend upon your garbage can."

The clubwomen yesterday began the task of spreading by word of mouth from clubwoman to neighbor, from housewife to housewife, the plan to clean up—eliminate unsightly trash on the streets and how to co-operate with the sanitary department, which, Cates said, is badly handicapped by lack of equipment and by lack of personnel.

Mrs. Little will name chairman for each of the 10 sanitary districts, who will aid in teaching housewives the hour of arrival of the garbage collectors on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, and the arrival of trash collectors on the streets on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

"We collect trash off the streets only on Wednesdays and Saturdays, but many people throughout the city sweep their trash and rake the leaves from their yards on to the streets on these days after the truck has passed," said Cates. "If they would only put the trash out on Tuesdays and Fridays, then it would not sit on the streets and blow over the sidewalks and back into the yards for three or four days between collections."

300-Ton Collection.

Cates asked women to co-operate in obtaining good garbage cans, with covers, and explained that the daily collection of garbage in the city weighs more than 300 tons. A rain in the city will add 125 tons to that weight, he said. He cited figures and statistics in explaining how garbage is disposed by burning and thus creating steam to be sold.

He promised aid in removing kudzu vines from vacant lots, but pointed out the city employees can not cut a single vine. Mrs. Little and others declared they will campaign to get property owners to remove vines themselves to eliminate mosquito-breeding places.

Several clubwomen pointed out difficulties they had experienced in getting streets clean. Cates said old trucks, some in use since 1920, often break down, forcing the department to leave some streets uncleaned.

He asserted more equipment and more street sweepers are needed and expressed the hope that a larger appropriation for the sanitary department can be obtained next year.

Mrs. Little served tea for the clubwomen following the meeting.

GEORGIAN IS NAMED REGIONAL DIRECTOR OF PWA ACTIVITIES

Howard T. Cole Selected by Ickes To Head Office for Southern States.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes today announced that Howard T. Cole, now state engineer inspector for Georgia and Alabama, has been selected as new PWA regional director for region No. 3, which comprises the states of Georgia, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi and Florida.

Director Cole, who is 47 years old and a construction engineer of long experience, will have complete charge of the newly reorganized public works administration of region No. 3, headquarters for which will be in Atlanta.

Experience Utilized.
In selecting Mr. Cole as regional director to permit the shifting of the federal public works administration field organization from a state to a regional setup to achieve economies, Ickes said that full advantage had been taken of the experience gained by PWA personnel during the past four and a half years.

"The new PWA regional directors," Ickes declared, "who will have field charge of the construction program now under way in the country, having a total cost approaching $2,000,000,000 and embracing nearly 3,000 projects now under construction, contract or under allotment, have been called to Washington to confer with the central office officials."

Effective November 1.
"The new regional setup of the PWA becomes effective November 1, when the state offices will be abolished and the field direction of this vast construction program will be turned over to the regional offices."

Mr. Cole, who was born in Fulton county, Georgia, went with PWA as a resident engineer inspector in 1933. Before this he had engineering work in New York city, on the Cape Cod canal in New England, and for 14 years was with the Emergency Fleet Corporation, United States Shipping Board.

COMMENT REFUSED BY STATE DIRECTOR

J. Houston Johnston, acting state PWA director for Georgia, said last night he had no statement to make concerning the selection of Howard T. Cole as new PWA regional director for region No. 3. Johnston said he had not been informed of the change in setup.

GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL PLANS STUNT NIGHT

Decatur Classes To Compete for William Schley Howard Trophy.

Instituted in 1932 by Mrs. William Schley Howard to promote talent and originality, the fifth annual "stunt night" at the Decatur Girls' High school is scheduled for Saturday night.

Members of the student body write and direct their own stunts, programs of 20 minutes each being presented by the four classes. Stunts will be given by the classes in the following order, the positions having been drawn by the class officers: Sophomores, seniors, freshmen and juniors.

The stunts are judged for originality, costuming, staging and acting. The name of the winning class is engraved on a silver loving cup and the name of the runner-up on a similar miniature cup, both presented by Mr. and Mrs. William Schley Howard.

Highlight of Year.

"Holding stunt night is one of the highlights of the year," said Mrs. Howard. "The girls feel that next to graduation it is the most exciting and important event of the school year. The stunts tend to establish a bit of friendly rivalry among the girls and also gives them a different angle on school spirit and class loyalty."

Fannin Countians Unveil Monument at Blue Ridge to World War Dead

Georgia's official and political life united with the citizens of Fannin county yesterday to pay tribute to the county's 14 World War dead in the unveiling of a heroic memorial shaft at Blue Ridge. Here, on the speakers' platform, are seen (left to right) B. J. Cantrell, Georgia Department Commander J. P. Kelley, of the American Legion; Senator Walter F. George, Federal Judge Bascom S. Deaver, Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., Thomas H. Crawford, Governor Rivers, Congressman B. Frank Whelchel, and (standing) William Butt, master of ceremonies. Mr. Butt presented the monument, and Commander Kelley accepted it in behalf of the American Legion.

FANNIN DEDICATES SHAFT TO WAR DEAD

Speakers Voice Peace Pledge; 2,000 Attend Ceremony at Blue Ridge.

By LUKE GREENE, Staff Correspondent.

Pledges of peace for the United States reverberated through the still mountain air at Blue Ridge yesterday as seven prominent Georgians spoke at ceremonies dedicating a monument to Fannin county's World War dead—14 soldiers who marched away in 1917 to make the world safe for democracy.

Standing in the very shadow of the station where, two decades ago the khaki-clad heroes entrained for foreign service and inspired by the same martial music which sent the north Georgia soldiers away on their last mission for their country, the speakers, who included the state's two senators, the Governor, and one congressman, dedicated themselves wholeheartedly and unreservedly to the cause of peace.

Speakers of Day. Addresses were delivered by Senator Walter F. George, Governor Rivers, Senator Richard B. Russell, Congressman B. Frank Whelchel, of the ninth district; Federal Judge Bascom S. Deaver, of the middle district of Georgia; Colonel William Butt, chairman of the World War monument committee, and Pat Kelley, American Legion commander for Georgia. The Rev. L. Clinton Cutts, pastor of the McCaysville Baptist church, pronounced the invocation.

Undaunted by the fact rumblings of war are heard on the other side of the globe, Senator George assured his throng of listeners that "the American congress is decidedly against participation in any war on the other side of the ocean."

Rivers' Address. Governor Rivers, who was equally optimistic about the future, said as long as the government pursues its present plan of helping people, there is no need for worry over the possibility of war.

"Although it may seem the boys whose names are carved on this monument may have died in vain, in reality they have not, for they have impressed upon the minds of our people the fact that we must live at peace. They may have failed in making the world safe for democracy, but they have made us a peace-minded nation," the Governor continued.

The speakers were interrupted by frequent applause from the approximately 2,000 north Georgians who manifested their eagerness for peace and security.

Tells of White Crosses. Recalling a visit to Europe several months ago, Senator Russell said he viewed in one of the great cemeteries 10,000 white crosses, resting places of American soldiers.

"The United States will not be made a world policeman to settle the affairs of other nations or put other houses in order," he said. "If attacked, the sons of the United States would be as ready to defend it as at any time in the past, but we have learned we cannot profit from any war on foreign soil."

Congressman Whelchel also pledged his support to peace, asserting no more money would be spent in foreign wars "as far as your representative is concerned."

Accepted by Legion. The monument was presented by Colonel Butts, while Commander Kelley, of Valdosta, accepted it for Charles S. Griffin American Legion Post No. 23, of Fannin county. It was unveiled by daughters of Blue Ridge legionnaires.

Soldiers who names appear on the marble memorial are William B. Carter, Morganton; William G. Craig, Loving; Elmer H. Davenport, Higdon; Jasper A. Dickey, Mineral Bluff; Charles S. Griffin, Blue Ridge; Elijah L. Head, Hurst; Luther B. McClure, Blue Ridge; James H. Patterson, Fry; William D. Peltrey, Fry; Parley T. Roper, Mineral Bluff; and Boman Orton, Morganton. Three others whose names will be inscribed later are Robert P. Richards, Loving; John G. Green, of Morganton, and Private Hughes, of Rock Creek.

Innocuous Stamp Causes Shadows Of War To Loom

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The United States moved solemnly today to forestall a threatened war in Central America over a postage stamp.

In the ponderous phrases of diplomacy, the State Department announced that it, in collaboration with Costa Rica and Venezuela, is tendering its "good offices" to Honduras and Nicaragua to settle their boundary dispute.

But that tells only part of the story. Stamp Causes Dispute.

The official pronouncement neglected to mention that a seemingly innocuous postage stamp caused the boundary dispute to flare into the open, and sent Honduran and Nicaraguan armies marching menacingly toward the frontier.

The controversy dates back to 1906 when the King of Spain, acting as arbiter, defined the imaginary line dividing the two republics. Honduras accepted his findings but Nicaragua never did.

During the next 21 years the controversy was mostly dormant. Then Nicaragua issued a special airplane stamp picturing the map of Nicaragua which included a section of the disputed territory.

A sharp protest was lodged by Honduras, which retaliated by issuing mail stickers bearing a map of Honduras. This map also included the disputed territory.

Armies Mass. Not long afterward Nicaraguan newspapers published reports that Honduran troops were being massed near the disputed border. Then came dispatches telling of similar movements by Nicaraguan troops.

Soon, Nicaragua agreed to withdraw its stamp if the Honduran sticker were recalled. But the situation continued so menacing that the United States expressed the hope that a peaceful solution would be found.

Nicaragua and Honduras indicated willingness to accept mediation and this was arranged last night.

He was a former reader in the Atlanta First Church of Christian Scientists and was well known in church circles.

Federal Theater Offers Comedy For 4-Night Run

Deep inside most everyone is a longing to get away from the grind of conventionalism, to do something different, a desire for adventure.

"Excursion," a three-act comedy, which opened a four-night run at the Atlanta theater last night, is the story of a hundred New Yorkers on just such a break from routine existence.

The play, presented by the Federal theater as its third offering of the fall season, deals with the experiences of a mixture of all types of New Yorkers, herded together on an excursion boat—the S. S. Happiness—to Coney Island. But, they never get there. The boat's captain, played by Halbert Brown, of the New York Federal Theater group, changes his course and heads for the Caribbean with his excitement-hungry group.

He failed to reckon with the coast guard, however, and what happens then unravels an interesting story.

Most outstanding in the cast, besides Brown, are Misses Helen Stringfellow, Betty Barlow and Byrd Strickland and Gilbert Maxwell and Frank McMunn.

"Excursion" was written by Victor Wolfson and staged in Atlanta under the direction of John Cameron. M. L.

BONDS TOO 'HOT,' $674,209 RETURNED

Part of $1,456,000 Loot Stolen From Messenger Found in Subway.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Thirteen stolen treasury bonds valued at $674,209, which proved too "hot" for disposal here or abroad, were recovered from a lock box in a crowded subway station today.

Authorities were directed to Box K-155 on the northbound platform of the 59th Street station of the Seventh Avenue line by an anonymous note.

The recovery of the bonds, part of the $1,456,000 loot stolen from a bank of Manhattan messenger on January 19, 1935, was announced on the eve of the date set for the sentencing of Meyer Frankenberg, accused head of an international bond theft ring.

The recovery of the bonds from the lock box was announced jointly by United States Attorney Lamar Hardy and Reed Vetterli, agent in charge of the New York office of the FBI.

As a result of "information received" after Frankenberg pleaded guilty, they said, four of their assistants went to a midtown club late last night and awaited further instructions. After a while a telegraph messenger boy handed them an envelope containing a key and a note directing them to the lock box.

FOR STABILITY

President Roosevelt, speaking at the dedication of the new Federal Reserve building in Washington, urged perfecting of the nation's monetary and credit systems and co-ordination of business with all branches of government for the fullest utilization of human and material resources of the nation.

"Only in that way," said the President, "can we hope to achieve and maintain an enduring prosperity, free from the disastrous extremes of booms and depressions."

As pointed out by the President, both boom and depression are evil, both bringing disastrous results to the economic and social structure of the nation. For continuing prosperity a stable financial and business structure is essential. There is danger in an era of wild speculation on an advancing market as serious as the danger of rapidly falling prices.

It is important that some means be discovered and adopted to curb either extreme. Until such a legislative program is perfected, the country will never be free from recurring eras of false prosperity and destructive depression.

The study of economics, particularly in relation to government, is one of the most important of the day. It is a study that calls for unusual ability and one that must be pursued with earnest care. There must be complete understanding of the probable effects of any legislation before new laws are adopted. The balance between desirable control and disastrous governmental interference is delicate and congress cannot be too careful before final adoption of new laws, however necessary reform may be.

The goal of all monetary and credit regulations is stability—security that will lift the burden of fear from the average man and guarantee to businessmen and investors, large and small, a stable basis for their future operations. With such assurance business generally and the individual can both plan intelligently for the years to come and create new happiness and progress upon a solid and stable foundation.

The objective outlined by the President for monetary legislation will be fully indorsed by every thinking citizen. The middle road is the safe road and it is the route that must be followed if the economic laws of the nation are to hold the nation's business safely away from either extreme, depression or unfounded boom.

FOR A CLEANER CITY

The Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs is heading a movement which seeks the aid of every housewife in Atlanta for a cleaner and neater city. Streets and vacant lots free of trash, dirt and unsightly conditions is the objective of the drive.

Co-operation between every Atlanta housewife and the city sanitary department on the removal of garbage is asked. It is pointed out that, due to ignorance as to the hours of garbage removal, the full cans are placed outside, at many homes, after the collection truck has passed, and thus the unsightly and unsanitary can or basket sits on the sidewalk all day.

By informing themselves on the regular hour of collections, housewives may see that their garbage is ready before the truck arrives, it is pointed out.

The city will be asked to provide tops for its garbage trucks, to prevent collected trash from blowing or falling off the truck onto the street after it is loaded. Such truck tops are used in almost all other cities and their adoption in Atlanta would add much to the cleanliness of the streets. This reform has such apparent value that its adoption would undoubtedly be wise.

The cleaning up of vacant lots by removal of overgrown weeds is an important branch of the campaign. It is planned first to ask owners of such property to see that this necessary work is done. In event the owner does not comply with the request within a reasonable time, the city will be asked to do the work and bill the owner for the cost.

Many weed-overgrown lots are breeding places for mosquitoes and thus become dangerous disease spots. Besides their unsightliness, which frequently ruins what would otherwise be picturesque and beautiful residential sections, these neglected lots are a real and constant menace to the health of the entire city.

If the women leaders of the clean-up campaign can achieve even a part of the objectives they have set, Atlanta will be a much more attractive and desirable place in which to live.

We sort of lost track of the controversy over whether our helium gas may be exported. In any event, we should still have congress.

It was decent of Germany to pledge herself anew to the inviolability of Belgian soil. Now brave little Belgium can't say she wasn't warned.

Il Duce calls himself an event, not a man. What does this make Victor Emmanuel—a postponent?

THE SOUTHERN AND THE SOUTH

This week the Southern Railway named a new member of its directorate, adding John J. Watson, of New York, to its board. There are 12 members of that board, two of whom are executives of the road. Of the remaining ten, one is from Louisville, Ky., one from Richmond, Va., and one from Winston-Salem, N. C. The other seven are all New Yorkers.

Fairfax Harrison, the new chairman of the board, and E. E. Norris, just elected president, give their address as Washington, D. C. They are the executives on the board.

It has been the slogan of this railway, from time immemorial, that "The Southern Serves the South." It seems apparent, however, that the Southern does not desire the south to serve the railway, at any rate upon its board of directors.

This railway is a dominant transportation factor for the entire south, from Washington to Miami and New Orleans. Its interests are exclusively southern and its prosperity depends upon the prosperity of the southern territory it serves.

Yet, from all that vast territory south of North Carolina and Kentucky, it has drawn no man to sit in its controlling group.

Surely, among all the business and professional leaders of the south, from all the splendid types of executive ability to be found in these southern states, a railway which is concerned chiefly with the affairs of the south, could find men capable of serving it in magnificent manner on its directorate.

The New York members of the board are able and conscientious men, but it would seem that seven New Yorkers out of ten members of a group so intimately concerned with southern affairs is disproportionate representation.

The Constitution has no desire to dictate the policies of the Southern Railway, but it is, at least, unfortunate that a railway, running through the heart of the south from Washington to New Orleans, does not to a greater extent man its board of directors from the able and far-sighted business leaders of the section upon which it depends for its patronage.

WHAT WILL IL DUCE DO NEXT?

The surface capitulation of Italy to Britain and France on the question of "volunteer" fighters in Spain leaves the world in skeptical doubt. There is a world-wide anxiety to discover the reason behind the apparent recession of Mussolini from his previous stand on this issue.

It is contrary to the entire Mussolini character, as conceived by public opinion outside of Italy, for him to recede from any previously announced position. It is that very stubbornness on the part of the Italian leader which has brought about the crisis which has threatened a new outbreak of European war with the Mediterranean sea as the theater of operations.

It is significant that the Italian concession came promptly after Russia had blocked an earlier program discussed at the nonintervention conference of the 29 nations. Probably, if the Italian action is the result of a desire not to precipitate a new war, it is through fear of the forces of the Soviet.

The struggle in Spain has been a fight between greater forces than the government and Rebel groups of Spaniards themselves, almost from the start. There has been no attempt to hide the fact that many thousands of Italian troops, so-called "volunteers," have fought on the side of General Franco's Rebels. Other groups, chiefly adventurers, have espoused the cause of the Loyalists. Russian planes on the Loyalist side have fought against Italian and German planes bearing the Rebel flag.

A recent commentator in Italy reported that the hospitals there are filled with wounded Italian soldiers who fought in Spain. It has been the keystone of the world effort to confine the fighting to Spain itself, to induce other powers to recall their troops from the peninsula. Chiefly, the Italian troops. Mussolini has steadfastly refused to do this. He has used every diplomatic artifice to avoid the final showdown on the issue. Now, when that showdown drew near, he apparently recedes at the eleventh hour and bows to the wishes of the other nations.

It is not like Mussolini and the world waits, in anxiety, and asks "What now?"

"I am not a man but an event," says Il Duce. The belief that he is a World Series, however, slowly subsides.

In December, all Russia goes to the polls. They say Stalin will put this question to the sovereign elector, "Am I right or am I right?"

Editorial of the Day

IT'S OKLAHOMA'S SHOW, ALSO

(From The Daily Oklahoman.)

Medicine Lodge, Kan., might well be called the terminal of the 70-year trail of progress which added Oklahoma to the great empire of the south-west.

That city was only a camping ground on the Medicine river 70 years ago—a spot which held 15,000 actors who rung down the curtain upon an era of bloodshed and carnage.

Indian massacres did not cease for several years thereafter, it is true, but the famous Medicine Lodge treaty of 1867, signed with the five warlike tribes of plains Indians, marked the beginning of an end to frontier trouble.

October's Indian summer sun will light that stage again in a pageant of peace. Indian tepees again will flank the river's bend. Soldiers' tents again will be seen where the Medicine's sluggish water flows. The artificial trappings of pagentry will help imagination's eye to reconstruct that chill, rainy day when Santa, war chief of the Kiowa, drew his great black horse to the side of the trail, surveyed the white soldiers scornfully, and exclaimed: "You've cut my timber; you've killed my buffalo; my heart bursts!"

No matter how citizens today may regard the morality of government treaties which were made with the Indians, there is no escape from the fact that the red man's conception of property ownership was so divergent from that of the white that the two could not progress peaceably and concurrently within a nation whose intent was to compel unity.

Much of Oklahoma's history is tied closely to that treaty signed at Medicine Lodge. The pageant, given once each five years to commemorate the event, should attract interest.

Behind Washington Headlines

By H. R. BAUKHAGE.

SECRET VISIT WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—President Roosevelt's "hands-off" policy in regard to the stock market is a little misleading, according to a story whispered around Wall Street which hasn't had time to be officially denied in Washington yet.

It concerns a very secret White House emissary sent into the money mart. If we can believe one of the surprised gentlemen who received him, he was not a mere brain-truster either, but the President's own son and secretary, James.

The President, it is reported, sent his most intimate adviser out to ring exclusive doorbells along Broad and Wall streets and to ask, frankly, "What to do?"

Many answers, it is reported, were given, which, when averaged up, apparently amounted to "Do nothing."

All that, however, according to adders-up in Washington, more politically than economically inclined, added up to something quite different.

They say that the stock market has become the battlefield between financial interests—big business, if you will—and the New Deal. They don't assert that business purposely brought on the crash, but they say it has worked consistently to force the market down and keep it there, once the decline was started.

Not too far removed from the office of the Security and Exchange Commission you hear this story:

MANIPULATION "The depressed market was brought on in part by the efforts of certain insiders to build up their supplies of stocks, depleted when prices went up earlier in the year. With that start, the anti-New Dealers took hold in preparation for the 1938 congressional elections. By manipulation (in spite of SEC rules), they can continue a declining market, and New Deal enemies believe that many of Roosevelt's supporters will leave him in the face of a declining market."

Some of the friends of the New Deal who cling to this theory think that the market is being forced down for political reasons go further. And this is where they read deep significance into James Roosevelt's ambassadorial visit to Wall Street.

"A trade!" they exclaim. Business wants to get rid of the surplus profits tax, the capital gains levy. The former has already lost face with Treasury officials, some of them at least.

"Did Jimmy," ask the cynical, "ask the brokers and bankers, 'What do you want done?' as well as 'What shall we do?'"

CHAIN OF EVENTS CITED As evidence to support the theory that, if business didn't start the down-slide of the stocks, it at least helped it along, friends of the New Deal offer a chain of events:

First, the plaint in financial circles that needs for business loans would necessitate checking large-scale bond operations by the Treasury. Then, the charges by Charles G. Day that SEC regulations had created a "thin" market and Winthrop Aldrich's blaming government regulation for impairing the market machinery. Shortly thereafter, the Chase National Bank sponsored Neil Carothers, Lehigh University economist and anti-New Dealer, on a nationwide tour. The National Association of Manufacturers started a campaign of "education" in the north and the "Committee for Cotton," with objectives hostile to the New Deal, was organized in the south. Finally, the American Bankers' Association elected a president known for his opposition to the administration's fiscal policies.

All this, say the New Dealers, ties in with Republican campaign speeches.

PROBLEM SEEN IN JESSE JONES The President can, at any time, dissolve the RFC as a lending unit, as he has indicated he will.

That may go quite a way toward balancing the budget, but it doesn't settle another problem, namely, what to do with the far from dissolvable Jesse Jones.

Friends of Jesse Jones will tell you that he is by no means ready to retire to private life. He has energy and ambition, plus. They will also tell you that he is young enough and able enough to be president, to say nothing of vice president. He has some exceedingly good friends in some exceedingly high places, and places where the New Deal is not such a welcome subject of discussion.

But it is admitted, too, that he hasn't the qualities to arouse a popular following, which some politicians, who have already looked into the matter pretty thoroughly, declare are necessary for the winking of a national election.

As one man, high up in the Democratic ranks and a good friend of Jones, put it:

"If presidents were appointed, Jesse Jones would have a good chance, and the country would have a good president."

WALLACE BOOMED FOR SENATE The wind that rustles the tall corn of Iowa carries a strange slogan into Washington: "Wallace for senator."

This somewhat anti-climatic appeal to the secretary of agriculture, who is credited with far higher ambitions, is based on the fact that Republican Iowa is beginning to feel its Republican oats again. The Democrats had a close scrape to elect a Democratic governor last time.

Sensor Gillette isn't so New Dealers when you look at him under the microscope. Moreover, some of the boys whose business it is to corral the votes think they need a bigger name in 1938. (Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES

The farmers and the businessmen. The brokers and the spinners. Of cotton troubles talk, and then, Forget the tariff sinners.

The Most Vital

Southern Issue

A crop of 17,000,000 bales of cotton, with resultant prices below the cost of production, has let loose a flood of discussion and argument that threatens to swamp every other topic of conversation in the south.

Properly so. For what other subject can be of such vital interest to the south as cotton? It is upon cotton that our entire economic edifice is founded and it is, in the final analysis, from cotton that we all get the bulk of our livelihood.

So, with your kind permission, it may not be amiss for Silhouettes to join in the general conversation for one day and make a few remarks that appear, in its probably amateur judgment, to be fundamental to any betterment of the admittedly desperate plight of the cotton farmer.

Who Is the Cotton Farmer?

Let it be understood, at the outset, that the cotton farmer of whom we speak is not the well-to-do planter, who operates his farm by long distance from a comfortable home in town, where he probably has several other interests.

The cotton farmer we're talking about is the poor devil on a five-acre farm he operates on shares or as a tenant. Whose total net income for a year's work, at present prices, is not much more than $50, in cash. Whose scale of living is probably the lowest of any group in the United States today, with the possible exception of the pitiful army of migratory farm laborers and a few slum dwellers in the big cities.

He's the guy we ought to think about, after it is the base of the structure and it is on him the edifice rests. And it rests mightily heavily at the moment.

Some Basic Facts

To Remember.

Nearly all would-be physicians of sick cotton, it seems to me, predicate their arguments upon several fallacies. Economic impossibilities, in other words.

In the first place they want a subsidy, under one name or another, from the federal government. The economic truth is that the cotton farmer is not a victim of an oversight; it is that no government can continue subsidies forever, whether you call 'em bounties, crop restriction payments, processing tax revenue, or what not. Secondly they forget that, by whatever name the subsidy is called, it must, inexorably, come from one source—the general public. And the cotton farmer, the producer, who pays it in lower prices for his cotton and me, the cotton consumer, who pays it in higher prices for his shirts.

Thirdly, they ignore the real cause of the trouble—which is the high tariff policy under which the United States conducts its international trading. The cotton farmer pays that tariff whenever he buys anything. And he gets no benefit when he sells, because his products are sold in a world market at world-imposed prices.

Fourthly, they all talk about cotton exports. Take it for granted we can sell all our cotton surplus, after supplying the domestic market, to the rest of the world. We can't, any longer. For the rest of the world is today raising practically all the cotton it consumes, regardless of the United States.

Then they talk about artificial maintenance of a higher domestic price. How are they going to do it? The cotton consumer—the textile manufacturer—in this country can buy foreign produced cotton too, and will do so if it is cheaper than the domestic variety. Did you know that Brazilian cotton, after being bought by mills in Georgia this year?

The only way you can keep foreign cotton out of America is by levying a tariff against it. Which simply adds to the evils of the present tariff walls which block international trade and prevent other countries from sending their goods here to exchange for our cotton.

There is one, and one only, real remedy for the cotton farmer. That is the knocking down of the tariff walls and the resumption of free flowing international trade.

Even then, he'll have to learn to grow other crops and make himself so independent he can grow cotton or not as he pleases and after it is grown, sell it only when he can do so at a profit.

If you've got any better remedy to suggest—one consistent with stubborn economic facts and conditions—let's have it.

Twenty-Five

From The Constitution of Tuesday, October 22, 1912:

"Ed Terrell, Louis McKoin, Fred Garrett, Pete Daley and Walter DuBard, members of the Pullman Blues, Captain Harrison Jones' crack society military company, were pulled out of the Grand Opera house at last night's performance by the conscientious captain and a squad of his men for shirking their arduous mili-

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Your Guess NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The one absolutely fool-proof subject on which any man's opinion is as good as another's is the sanity of the stock market. A subdivision of the wonderful, inscrutable mystery of money and gold.

In the panic of 1929 and thenceforth, which was euphemistically known as the depression, we were soothed from day to day with some of the high-sounding ignorance that ever soiled the face of good white newspaper, not only from financiers and gamblers and theoretical economists in shiny serge who had never seen more than $500 cash in all their lives, but from journalistic interpreters who had seen their own two cents go down the drain the very day that was—was it the economic royalists and well-fed cluttern?—pulled the plug.

It was Ivor Kreuger, the Swedish Ponzi, who stabbed our dolly with a jackknife and let the sawdust out. No, it wasn't Kreuger; it was the black-headed Republicans, mainly poor old Herbert Hoover, who hadn't been in office long enough to get his chair warm before the boom blew up in his face and splattered him with a hatred which was really due to his mumbled hypocrisy on prohibition.

Then it was the bankers who put on airs behind their curly bronze barricades and spent the afternoon playing golf. Then the blame touched the men who loaned us our honest savings to spigotty politicians in Latin America in return for emaciated bonds.

It was the holding company. It was lack of regulation. It was war in which the money countries of the world shot away the pay of generations yet to come. It was the British who wrenched on their war debts. It was sun spots, throwing puny humanity out of kilter, and a judgment and come-uppance from above.

Figures It was all of those "fiduciary" and "debtenture" and "deteriorated technical position of the market," but still the figures fell, faster in some cases than the moral shells of hopelless victims.

Most despairing leaps from their penthouse terraces came to be a subject of popular humor. And still if you were to ask a hundred common men today what caused the panic of 1929 you would get no intelligent answer, and a dozen different would fog up their replies with so much confusion that you wouldn't know what they were saying, nor would they.

There is nothing—not even religion—in which men have more interest, and of which they have less understanding than money or values or wealth, and what happens to it when all of a sudden it ain't.

We are told that 15, 20, nobody knows how many billions have been wiped out in the recent decline of the stock market.

What happened to it, then? Was it food or bales of clothing dumped in the sea, new automobiles by the hundred thousands shoved into the Grand Canyon, or thousands of barrels of fine, nutritious whiskey poured down the sewer, or were whole cities of good, livable homes destroyed by earthquake or fire? Apparently not.

Horror The horror happened in some figures happens, waltzing across an illuminated electric board in a broker's office, and not an ounce of any material thing necessary for the life and comfort of man was lost in the process.

Nevertheless, the figures we hear much more about over the regulation now, about bears in London, and that dreadful paradox—the superabundance which afflicts a nation almost as sorely as famine and makes men shiver and yawn.

Kreuger is dead these many years now, and Al Wiggin has long been retired with the hearty wishes, though not necessarily of the best, of those who also wish that they never had run foul of him. And old, sobbing Sam Insull, now that the heat is definitely off, is said to be on his way to a twilight of ease in England—another marvel of economical management by a man who protested at his trial that he was penniless and forced to ride the 10-cent bus for lack of taxi fare.

What, then, has caused all this? So you really want to know? Then don't read the "experts" or the gamblers, but go down to the corner and ask the bartender. He won't know, either, but he'll tell you what he doesn't know in language you can understand—which is more than may be said of the others.

Parks Not Parks.

Famous English parks are Sandown park, Hurst park, Kempton park and Alexandra park, but they are not parks. They are race courses.

tary duties for the giddy frivolities of the social whirl."

And Fifty

Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Saturday, October 22, 1887:

"The more I go about the country by rail the more I want to kill a railroad employee. I used to think it surely would be the man in the ticket office, but I have let up on him. Now, it is the baggage checker. I happened to get into conversation one day with the ex-president of a railroad, and he assured me that ninety-nine of every hundred railroad ticket agents:

"1. Were born with the dyspepsia.
"2. Had corns on every blessed toe and bunions on both feet.
"3. Had been disappointed in love, or had married unhappily.
"4. Would commit suicide in a few years anyhow, and nothing could be gained by killing them."

American Corn Could Not Save The Irish, for They Couldn't Believe it Was Food

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

In a recent episode of a comic strip, the villain recently insured the life of a small girl and then instructed his hired thugs to make an end of her by some method that would appear accidental.

But the thugs have no luck. One of them tries to do the job by dropping a block of granite from the coping of a tall building, but a rope somehow gets wrapped around his ankle and he follows the granite.

Two of them, with drawn revolvers, follow the little girl into an upstairs room, but some unseen force kicks them out and almost takes them apart.

Another, finding the little girl on a roof after dark, approaches stealthily to push her off, but again the mysterious something intervenes, sweeps the little one aside and sends the villain head over heels to his doom.

The invisible Boy Scouts apparently are the ghosts of buccaneers who like the child and make it their business to protect her.

A real little girl, who had followed the story with fascinated interest, sat daydreaming for a while and then remarked in comic-strip language: "Gee! Wouldn't it be swell to have a friend like that to protect you! You wouldn't ever be scared because he'd be right there, even if you couldn't see him, and he wouldn't let anything happen to you. Wouldn't it make you feel good?"

"Yes, my dear," her grandmother answered. "It makes you feel very good indeed. I have had such a friend for 60 years, and I have never been afraid, for I always know he is with me."

Those who are capable of a sincere belief in God are the most fortunate of people.

They live without fear for the present or anxiety for the future, for they know that a friend more powerful than any king or dictator stands beside them. In the secret of His presence they feel secure, knowing that no evil can befall them. No threat or danger can disturb their serenity, for He is in charge and anything He permits will be for their ultimate good.

It is the faith of a child in a parent. One has it or one has not, as one has breeding or lacks it, and no effort of will can change matters.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"God bless me and my wife, My son John and his wife, Us four and no more."

In the north and east now the fact that a readjustment of freight rates in the south's favor would help southern industry at the expense of northern and eastern is sufficient reason for opposing the readjustment. Right and wrong seem to play no part. No more than they play a part in the opposition of northern industrialists to tariff reforms which would help southern agriculturalists. In honesty, though, southerners should admit that they are equally inclined to serve their own interests at the expense of other interests and with regard to equity or the general interest. They should admit that their implied promise to give up favorable wage differentials if they can obtain removal of unfavorable freight differentials is not a very earnest promise and that all the king's horses and men probably won't be able to persuade them voluntarily to put away wage differentials when (a) they are relieved of freight differentials.

ADMIRAL W.D. LEAHY TO BE HONOR GUEST AT NAVY DAY HERE

Chief of Operations Will Unveil New Bronze Gates at Tech.

Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, will arrive in Atlanta next Tuesday to participate in the eleventh annual Navy Day celebration. Admiral Leahy is the highest ranking official in the navy, and will be the guest of the Navy League while in Atlanta. Jesse Draper is state chairman of the league. Admiral Leahy will be accompanied by Lieutenant William L. Freseman, his personal aide.

The admiral will unveil the newly erected bronze gates which mark the entrance to the Tech Naval Armory Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock. These gates, depicting student life at the technological school, were designed by Julian Harris, Atlanta sculptor, and cast in the school foundry. The material for the memorial was taken from the decommissioned battleship Georgia. After the ceremony Admiral Leahy will deliver an address to the students of the Tech naval unit. He will be accompanied by President M. L. Brittain,

Landon Big Help To F.D.R., Says Ickes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(AP) Secretary Ickes declared today that "Chief Landon and Ghost Hoover seem to be competing for the same grave."

He referred to the former Republican presidential candidates in commenting at a press conference of Alf M. Landon's recent speech attacking the Roosevelt administration.

"An unsuccessful presidential candidate commenting on his successful opponent's record ought to be very scrupulous and not say anything that would have to be excused on the charitable grounds that he didn't know what he was talking about," Ickes said.

"He did a great job—for the administration."

of Georgia Tech, and Captain Reed M. Pawell, commander of the Tech N. R. O. T. C.

Banquet in Evening.

The naval league, naval reserve and the regular naval officers of Atlanta will culminate the Navy Day celebration at a banquet to be given in the Biltmore hotel Wednesday night at which time Admiral Leahy will deliver a speech on Navy Day over WSB. Many of the ranking military and naval officers of this area will be present. Among those invited are Major General George Van Horn Moseley, commander of the fourth corps area; President Brittain, Dean Vernon Skiles, of Georgia Tech; Captain Pawell, as well as members of the naval reserve and other regular naval officers who are now in the city.

Admiral Leahy, who was appointed to the Naval Academy in 1893, served during the Spanish-American and World Wars. He was awarded the navy cross with the following citations: "For distinguished service in the line of his profession as commanding officer of the U. S. S. Matoka, engaged in the important, exacting and hazardous duty of transporting and escorting troops and supplies to European ports through waters infested with enemy submarines and mines."

Named Admiral in 1936.

In June, 1933, Admiral Leahy was appointed chief of the Bureau of Navigation, and in July, 1935, he was given the rank of vice admiral. He was appointed admiral and on March 30, 1936, he hoisted his four-starred flag on the U. S. S. California. Admiral Leahy took the oath of office as chief of naval operations on January 2, 1937. He has been awarded the following decorations: Navy cross, Sampson medal, Spanish campaign medal, Philippine campaign medal, Nicaraguan campaign medal (1912), Mexican service medal, Dominican campaign medal and the Victory medal (transport class).

WAGE BOOST GIVEN MERCHANT MARINE

Maritime Commission Fixes Minimum Scale, Better Working Conditions.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The Maritime Commission struck tonight at a major cause of labor difficulties in the American merchant marine by fixing minimum wage scales and "reasonable working conditions" for 10,000 officers and men on government-subsidized lines.

The commission's order, which provided also for minimum manning scales, becomes effective November 1.

Commission Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy, said the general labor situation in the merchant marine is "definitely bad" and that "wages and living quarters seem to be a chief cause of complaint."

The minimum wage scale fixed by the commission, Kennedy said, is approximately the same as the scale now generally in force on the west coast as a result of agreements made by labor unions and operators.

In the unlicensed personnel classification it provides for pay ranging from $35 a month for bell boys to $120 a month for the chief steward. The pay for able seamen and firemen is set at $72.50 a month.

Wages for licensed personnel, or officers, were fixed according to the tonnage of vessels and range from $265 for first officers in the largest class vessels to $115 for the lowest-paid licensed officers. Wages for licensed engineer officers range from $390 to $115.

EVIDENCE FOUGHT

State Argues Admissibility of Poison Testimony.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The state's fight to link blonde Anna Marie Hahn with the asserted poison deaths of three elderly men beside Jacob Wagner hung in the balance tonight.

Judge Bell announced at the conclusion of a day's argument over the admissibility of evidence by the state that he would rule on the question when the murder trial is resumed tomorrow.

Counsel for the 31-year-old former housemaid fought to prevent testimony which, Prosecutor Outcalt declared, would "prove a plan on the part of this defendant to kill people for gain."

Outcalt named three elderly Cincinnati—Albert Palmer, 72; George Gellman, 67, and George Obendorfer—as the poison victims of the woman on trial for the death of Wagner, 78-year-old gardener.

Remember When? 4 Veteran Police Officials Reminisce of Yesteryear

"Remember when traffic policemen rode bicycles?" Such memories as this were discussed last night by these four veteran police officials at a dinner given by Major J. M. Broughton, former chief at Portsmouth, Va. Left to right are Assistant Chief A. J. Holcombe, Major Broughton, who is honorary life president of the International Association of Police Chiefs, and two former Atlanta chiefs, James L. Beavers and T. O. Sturdivant. Broughton, who is visiting his daughter at 3109 Piedmont road, entertained for his Atlanta friends as he celebrated his fortieth anniversary as a policeman. They talked about changes in police methods over a period of nearly half a century.

OWEN WILL DEMAND TARIFF REDUCTIONS

Georgian Cites Discrepancies in Price of Farm Machinery.

GRiffin, Ga., Oct. 21.—Reduction in the present high tariff on farm machinery holds the key to increased prices for the American farmer, Congressman Emmett Owen declared here today, adding that "no lasting relief can be given the farmer" until this is brought about.

Congressman Owen, only Georgian on the important house agricultural committee, has received a summons to Washington to help prepare a farm program for presentation at the coming session of congress.

"The American farmer," he said, "pays more for farm machinery than does the farmer abroad. The foreign farmer buys the same American-made machinery for 40 per cent less than our farmer has to pay, and the price abroad includes freight across the ocean. If the tariff on farm machinery is reduced, there is no reason why American farmers could not buy their farm implements for half the price they now pay."

High tariffs, he declared, present the same situation in the matter of shoes, harness, clothing and other things.

"I am going to insist that congress pay some attention to the tariff question," he said, "for as long as the farmer has to pay exorbitant prices for what he buys, any relief given him along other lines will be nothing but temporary."

F. D. R. Battling Odds in Training U. S., Wells Says

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(UP) President Roosevelt is "quite straight in his effort," without any trace of the dictator and faces terrific difficulties in educating an "extraordinary old-fashioned country," H. G. Wells, British author, said tonight after a chat at the White House.

Mr. Roosevelt's two chief obstacles in his attempt to "organize the country on modern lines in political life," Wells said, are:

The constitution, which Wells considers too rigid.

The lack of a good civil service. Wells threw up his hands when a Washington columnist asked him whether he thought the Duke of Windsor "would become an expert on housing" after his forthcoming visit to the United States.

"I am not a gossip columnist," Wells protested.

One 'C' Too Many Put in Aqueduct Tripped Speller

And now comes Walter Cowart, assistant state superintendent of schools, pleading not guilty to newspaper charges that he disqualified Miss Mildred Pharr, of Gwinnett county, for leaving a "c" out of aqueduct, but on the contrary because she inserted an extra "c" at the state spelling championship last week.

Cowart was the managing head of the spelling bee, sponsored by The Atlanta Constitution, the Southeastern Fair Association and the State Department of Education, and as such had the last say. "Aqueduct" is aqueduct all over the English speaking world, and that's all there is to it," Cowart said in presenting his case. "Miss Pharr spelled it 'aqueduct,' and that was not exactly according to spelling Hoyle and she was credited, discredited or what have you, with a miss."

"Like the erroneous report about Mark Twain's death, I have been misquoted and the matter has been quite extensively exaggerated throughout the press of Georgia. Even reporters make mistakes, as infallible as they ordinarily are. The report of the proceedings was a lapsus memoriae, a lapsus calami, a lapsus lingue or some other slip equally as terrible. In other and simpler words, 'aqueduct' is spelled 'aqueduct'."

She returned to Elgin, her birthplace, four years ago after retiring from the management of the magazine.

LOU LITTLE
Columbia Coach

Boys of 20 make great football PLAYERS—

But the COACH who plans the plays and trains the players is usually a MAN OVER 40

IT IS THE TEAM that stirs your blood as you watch football.

But each brilliant play was first planned off the field—sometimes years in advance, by a man who started to study football before his players were born.

It takes long experience in the game to make a great football coach. Among the best known coaches today, the average age is well over 40.

Columbia's Lou Little is going on 45. He first played college football in 1916. He coached for many years before he went to Columbia in 1930.

It was the experience of these years that made him the great strategist of the game he is. He was just around 40 when he started to put Columbia teams back among the leading elvens of the country. Little is now in his stride—and on his way to further triumphs.

In Many Lines of Work Men Just Become Good at 40

Like great football coaches, many people reach their highest capacities at 40, or after, and become even more successful for many years after that. But, men and women who stop in mid-career are all too familiar. During their twenties and thirties they were learning, gaining experience, getting better all the time. Then when they reached the forties, they made no more progress—sometimes started to slip back.

They had the experience, the skill to be more successful than ever before, but were losing their physical energy.

Regained "Push" His Job Needs

Dear Life Begins: My work is sales promotion in the retail grocery trade. It calls for high-pressure salesmanship.

A short while ago I found I had lost my pep—wasn't putting my ideas over. I didn't sleep well.

I'm only 41, but I thought maybe I was slipping into stodgy middle age. I soon found I was wrong.

I started to eat Fleischmann's Yeast. Before long I began to feel young again—sleeping like my own youngsters and waking up in the morning feeling on top of the world.

I'm full of confidence in myself now—always ready with new ideas and with the "push" to get them over.

Now in Line for Promotion

ALBERT P. SMITH

Dear Life Begins: I am an important "contact man" for my bank—the ever-helpful paying teller. I have to be polite and pleasant all the time.

I am 44 now. A few years ago, my digestion went back on me. I had headaches besides. My irritable manner annoyed the customers. My work was affected.

My son had been eating Fleischmann's Yeast, and I decided to try it. I soon found it was helping me. I got over being so nervous. It became easy for me to be tactful in difficult situations.

With the new business I'm bringing in, I feel that my chances for promotion are excellent.

ALBERT P. SMITH

Ready for More Hard Work at 71

Dear Life Begins:

I have been in theatrical work for over 50 years, having quite a reputation for my photographic memory, which, of course, depended on my being clearheaded.

My health was perfect until my digestion began to fail. Then I seemed tired, and sometimes I couldn't stand up straight, the pain was so bad.

One day the manager of the corner grocery told me several of his customers bought Fleischmann's Yeast for their health. He suggested I should try it.

I began eating it regularly. In a short time all my indigestion disappeared. The dizziness left me and my head was clear again.

I still take Fleischmann's Yeast. It kept my health and strength in perfect condition through a long, hot summer job and now I am ready for a good hard winter's work.

FRANK ANDREWS

Aging Often STARTS with Slower Digestion

SLOWER DIGESTION, common at 40, accounts for many unrealized ambitions and unfulfilled careers.

After passing their 40th birthday, many people find their energy flagging, their vitality lessening. Often this is due to digestive weakness. At this age, the gastric juices generally begin to flow less freely and to be less effective in their action.

Don't let this one early weak spot defeat you. You can check digestive decline.

Fleischmann's Yeast gives people over 40 exactly the help so many of them need. It quickens digestion by promoting a fuller, stronger flow of the gastric juices.

It has an added tonic action. Fleischmann's Yeast brings you a good supply of the NERVE VITAMIN, the COLD RESISTANCE VITAMIN, the

BONE VITAMIN, and the GROWTH AND VITALITY VITAMIN. These names tell you what an important part each vitamin plays in keeping you fit.

Eat Fleischmann's Yeast regularly 3 times a day—one cake ½ hour before each meal—plain or in a little water. For the slight effort of forming this good habit, you'll be rewarded by a splendid improvement in strength and health.

$25 WILL BE PAID FOR LETTERS of success after 40—so helpful to others we wish to print them. If you can truly credit to Fleischmann's Yeast some part of the health that made your success possible—write us—enclosing your picture. (Letters and pictures cannot be returned.) LEWIS BEALL DIES AT ILLINOIS HOME

Former Atlantan Played Important Role in Civic, Business Circles.

Lewis H. Beall, who was a resident of Atlanta for only four years and left a lasting imprint in the life of the city, died unexpectedly late Wednesday night at his home in Oak Park, Ill., according to word received here yesterday.

On August 1, 1926, Mr. Beall came to Atlanta from Chicago to open the Sears, Roebuck & Company's largest building in the south. He remained in charge of it until August, 1930, when he resigned to take a position with Encyclopedia, Inc.

An employee of the Sears, Roebuck & Company for a number of years, he worked his way to an executive position before coming here in 1926 from Chicago. While here he was an active member of the Chamber of Commerce and became a well-known speaker at the Rotary Club luncheons.

He was also a member of the Capital City Club, the Piedmont Driving Club, the Atlanta Athletic Club and the Brookhaven Club.

When he returned to Chicago, he was made general manager of the encyclopedia company. He resigned about a year ago, and has since lived quietly at his home in Oak Park.

The last visit he made to Atlanta was last spring, when he played golf and visited with friends here. The funeral will be held in his home city.

UNSETTLED WEATHER PREDICTED FOR TODAY

Atlanta's weather will be more or less unsettled for the next day or two, the weatherman predicted yesterday.

Cloudy skies and cooler temperatures will prevail today, with temperatures ranging between 48 and 66 degrees. No frost or freezing weather is expected for several days, the weatherman said.

WRISTS SLASHED, MAN FOUND IN CAR

Frank Hollingsworth, Bakery Employee, in Grady.

Frank M. Hollingsworth, 29, of Culberson street, S. W., was found slumped over the steering wheel of a bakery truck in Coletown yesterday with both wrists slashed.

He was admitted to Grady hospital in only fair condition. Mrs. T. A. Chapman, of Coletown, noticed the truck parked in front of her house for several hours and on investigation found Hollingsworth unconscious inside. On the seat by Hollingsworth was a check on a local bank made out to his mother and all his bakery orders neatly arranged, police said.

DENHARDT BRANDED AS 'POWER-DRUNK'

Former Fellow Officer Terms General 'Domineering, Unscrupulous.'

SHELBYVILLE, Ky., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Former fellow officers in the Kentucky national guard termed Brigadier General Henry H. Denhardt "domineering" and "power-drunk" in testimony at the murder trial of Roy and Jack Garr late today, charged with murder of the former Kentucky adjutant general.

Shortly afterward the defense sprang a surprise by offering testimony that Roy was temporarily insane when he shot Denhardt on the street here last night of September 20. Roy had told the jury Denhardt had threatened his life and added "I shot to protect my life." Jack denied he was armed when the Garr brothers met Denhardt.

Backs Up Defense.

Backing up defense claims that Roy feared the portly World War veteran, Mrs. Verdie Bennett, housekeeper for comely Verna Garr Taylor, to whom Denhardt was engaged, testified Denhardt told Mrs. Taylor he would shoot her brothers, "especially that big bum, Roy, like a rat" if they continued to oppose his marriage to her.

Brigadier General Ellerbe W. Carter, of Louisville, was associated with Denhardt when the latter was Kentucky adjutant general, termed him "one of the most violent, domineering and unscrupulous men I ever knew."

Lew Ulrich, Louisville, a national guard first lieutenant and former aide-de-camp to Denhardt, characterized him as "power-drunk" and "officious."

"Cruel" Charge Hurdled.

Major Joseph Kelley, Frankfort, described him as "cruel and inhuman."

The insanity testimony was introduced in a long hypothetical question asked of three physicians.

Dr. Milton Board, Louisville, in replying, declared Roy Garr had been emotionally insane and that he became normal again immediately after what he termed "the mental explosion occasioned by seeing the general." Dr. Leon P. Solomon and John R. Peters, both of Louisville, concurred with Dr. Board.

2 RUN OUT OF STATE, THEY CLAIM IN SUITS

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Two suits, each asking $25,000, have been filed by labor leaders who charged they were taken from a hotel in Elberton, escorted into South Carolina and warned not to return lest they be killed.

One of the suits was filed by J. E. Barrett in United States district and the other by J. W. Luquire in superior court.

They claimed they were registered at the Samuel Elbert hotel the night of August 4, when a group of men came to their rooms and forced them to leave. The hotel was named defendant in each case. The plaintiffs charged a hotel employee unlocked a basement door so the men could take them out of the hotel, and that police were notified of the alleged midnight abduction at 10 a. m. the next day.

SOFT COAL GROUP BLAMED BY BOARD

Held Responsible for Delay in Price-Setting.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The Coal Commission, a month late with its plans to set minimum prices for bituminous coal, cracked down on eastern soft coal operators today on the ground they are delaying the commission's biggest job in regulating the industry.

Chairman Charles F. Hosford Jr. blamed producers' district boards in the eastern area, and the commission said it would decide Friday whether to relieve the boards of their jobs of co-ordinating prices in the highly competitive eastern markets.

Price co-ordination has stalled the commission since September

Spotlight Turned on Fall Clothes at 2d Garden Session

Sears Revue of Practical Fashions for 1938 turned the spotlight on wearable, becoming clothes for the entire family at the opening of the second day of The Atlanta Constitution Fall Garden School yesterday.
burnt orange; Margie Bradfords, a typical English tweed coat for football; Mildred and Marian Hollingsworth are all dressed for school in jumper dresses of brown woolen. Little Johnny Mac Nichols wears a brown methods of expressing personality in the building of a garden. The speaker will be introduced by Mrs.

Alva G. Maxwell, president of the Atlanta Woman's Club, who will act as hostess for the day.Plant Winter Grass.
Mrs. Crown's lecture yesterday on "What To Do in the Garden Now," struck an instant and popular appeal, for the perfect fall weather inspires gardeners to be up and doing. Her first advice was to plant winter grass immediately to beautify and give color to surroundings that naturally turn drab in winter. A plot of green grass not only delights the eye of those who see it every day, but it acts as a sort of welcome to the many northern visitors who come south and pass through the city in winter.Now is the time to get your front yard in order for the winter, according to Mrs. Crown. It is time to plant shrubbery, for the weather is ideal and the ground is warm and moist. In the selecting and planting of shrubs, she wisely advised the preserving of dignity, for nothing adds more to the appearance of a home than a dignified and orderly front.It is not the time to do heavy pruning, for such cutting makes the plants put forth extra effort to attain new growth that will probably be killed later. However, Mrs. Crown does begin to prune her roses in December. She cuts them back to two feet in height and puts the cuttings into her cutting bed to make more plants.
In the spring she prunes them again to an approximate six inches in height, for roses bloom only on the new growth.
She advises planting new roses in December when the plants are perfectly dormant, and always in the sunny, open place where they will get at least five hours of sunlight daily. Now is the time to spray your roses to guard against disease, and in January they should be fed twice with lime sulphur.Evergreens Important.
Evergreens and the blooming shrubs are both important in planning a garden, and if you need more plants, now is the time to make cuttings. It is also seed-planting time for such favorites as larkspur and all varieties of poppies, and even petunia seed may be planted as soon as cold weather begins. It is too late for pansy seed, but the plants may be put in the ground with all safety now, according to Mrs. Crown.Turning to the subject of bulbs, the speaker advocated the planting of hyacinths and narcissi immediately. Tulip bulbs may be put in the ground from November 1 to January, those planted earlyyielding the best bulbs, and the later ones producing just as fine flowers but not such healthy roots.Perennials, always a favorite subject with Mrs. Crown, were given special emphasis in yesterday's lecture. "Now is the time of all times to work in your perennial beds," she said. "But be careful not to spade up and take out of your bed more soil than you can replace the same day." And she gave as her reason the caprices of the weatherman who might send rain and thereby make it impossible to work in the bed again for weeks.If you like ivy, by all means plant some now. And if you have an ugly bank where grass refuses to grow, put ivy cuttings in rows across it with the stems five or six inches deep in the soil. Mrs.
Crown promises that you will be well repaid when the plants begin to grow in the spring.Mindful of the fact that gardeners like to see as well as hear how things are done, the lecturer chose, at this point, to demonstrate the planting of bulbs for winter blooming in the house. Into a pottery bowl she put narcissus bulbs, with stone chips to hold them in place and water to make them grow. In an earthenware pot she planted white Roman hyacinths in good garden soil. And into a bulb container she put bulb fibre and planted valley lily pips that had been treated to make them bloom in the short space of three weeks.Audience Captivated.
In her characteristic manner of charming informality, Mrs. Crown captivated her audience and held its undivided attention throughout her able discussion of a subject on which she is a recognized authority. She concluded her lecture with a showing of beautiful colored slides furnished by "Better Homes and Gardens." The slides presented views of homes and gardens made before and after planting, as added encouragement to amateur gardeners. Mrs. Crown will conclude today's discussion with another group of slides lent
by Better Homes and Gardens.Mrs. Willard McBurney, president of the Atlanta Flower Show Association and an outstanding figure in horticultural circles, acted as hostess at yesterday's school, presenting Mrs. Crown to an audience to whom she needed no introduction. The latter wore for the occasion a smart black costume.
As a prelude to the program, the Sears manninkins presented a comprehensive revue of feminine modes, the style notes of which were explained by means of a loudspeaker. The parade of man-nikins, to the strains of luring music, clearly told the fashion story of 1938, interpreting it in terms of sports, street and evening costumes.The daily prize of $15 awarded to the garden club registering the largest number of members present went to the Grant Park Club, of which Mrs. C. W. Heery is president. Another daily prize of $15 will be awarded today, and in addition there will be a grand prizeopen again at 9 o'clock this morning, so that registration may begin early. The program begins at 10 o'clock and at noon The Constitution's sixth tree garden school will be brought to a happy and successful close.SPECIAL OFFICER

Saturday's Dance Will Christen Officers' Club at Ft. McPherson

By Sally Forth.

INTEREST and anticipation among military and civilian social circles are in high gear over the opening Saturday evening of the beautiful new Officers' Club at Fort McPherson. The building will be the scene of many social affairs for the ever-changing personnel of the post by army post, and those on duty there feel a more or less "ownership" of the new structure.

The army, using their wartime tactics, did a bit of camouflaging when they built the present club. The building is one of the three old boiler plants at the fort which the army reconditioned into one of the most attractive of modern buildings. It is whitewashed brick and is offset on the east side by the post swimming pool and on the west by the fairways of the post golf course.

The club is on the second-floor level, featuring a three-sided balcony which overlooks the lower floor. Stairways lead down either side from the entrance, and the stair and balcony railing is of iron grillwork. On the lower level, tables are placed around the outer edge of the room. At the end opposite the doorway, there is a large brick fireplace. There are private rooms for individual card parties, as well as attractive dressing rooms.

Saturday night's dance will christen the new club with army and civilian couples in attendance to dance away the hours until midnight. The opening dinner-dance, which will inaugurate a series of such affairs, is scheduled for November 6. In the past the dances have been held in the green and white frame building at the west end of the parade ground and it has been the scene of many gay parties and dances.

The Officers' Club was formed the latter part of the past century and has always been one of the leading social organizations at the fort.

Receiving the guests on Saturday will be Major General Van Horn Moseley, Brigadier General Robert O. Van Horn and Mrs. Van Horn, Colonel and Mrs. Llewellyn Oliver and Mrs. Robert Dunlop.

The buffet tables will be decorated with red and yellow dahlias and silver candelabra holding white burning tapers. Young matrons and belles serving will be Mesdames Harold Fuller, Charles Bramlitt, Charles Herman, Peter Garland, Horace Bigelow, David Schorr, William Spaulding, and Lucetta Van Horn, Susan Falligant, Marian Nulsen, Harriett Ramsey and Virginia Denit.

ONE of Sally's favorite gentlemen is a poker addict. And a very successful player he is, too. There is nothing he likes better on a winter evening than a quiet game with a group of his cronies. On which occasions his wife always waits up for him. One evening when he had had more than his usual luck, he celebrated just a tiny bit. You know, after the manner of poker-playing celebrants, with a mint julep or two.

But when he reached home, he was not unmindful of the $100 bill in his pocket which represented his evening's winnings. So before he went upstairs where the lights still burned brightly in his wife's boudoir, he slipped quietly into the library and placed the bill between the leaves of one of the many volumes on the book shelves.

It was several days before he went back to look for his money. He thought he knew exactly where he had left it, but he opened numerous books without any success. Days elapsed and in all his spare moments the gentleman looked feverishly for the hidden bill. His library happens to be one of the largest in the city, containing over 5,000 volumes, and the walls of the room are simply lined with book shelves.

So his task was quite an arduous one. His wife grew solicitous. "Why do you spend so much time in the library?" she inquired. "Oh, I'm just looking for something," he answered, but he did not explain what he sought.

It took the better part of a month to locate the missing bill. He thought he had left it in a book on one side of the room, but it turned out that he had

Frocks for the Debutante's Afternoon Party

The debutante's afternoon reception brings the revival of pre-war formality. The mother of the deb wears this dress of cobwebby imported peach lace over satin. The bodice has the new corseted look achieved by shirring through the waistline. Top, center, the debutante wears pale beige velvet with tiny puff sleeves. Old-fashioned ribbon flowers in pastel shades are applied across the bodice.

The friend who pours tea wears a sapphire blue crepe with deep V neck line outlined in crystal beads. The jacket is of chiffon beaded in crystal.

Forecast of Fashion's Trend

By JACQUELINE GREENE.

Since the Duchess of Windsor somewhat revolutionized the customs long established and accepted by the English nobility and the court and for a devilish time wrought havoc aplenty—it is little wonder that the same chic, square-chinned woman can set a new precedent in headgear with nothing more strenuous than the flicker of an eyelash.

The hats that have climbed to such dizzy heights in the last few weeks will hold their proportionate place in the sun while the Duchess ponders the question as to whether or not she will adopt the new bonnet type the milliner Suzy is designing for her approval.

Of course, the ultimatum rests, ad interim, in the calm yes or no spoken in the low, well-modulated voice of the Duke himself.

During the past season the Duchess has been wearing the off-face style of headgear, but like all women, even the Duchess likes a change now and then!

Here in Atlanta, up and down Peachtree street is an endless parade of tall crowns. Girls have really come to believe in the old saying "divinely tall," for inches in height are being added everywhere in the new "chimney tops," the straight up in a point "sky-larks," as well as that love of the fashion mags—the shoe hat, whose crown resembles the heel of a shoe.

Of course, it is always entrancing to glimpse a pretty face through a will of the wisp of a veil. But this fall your veil will blossom out in sequins for evening wear, and in various colors.

The giddy black tulle is star sprinkled with sequins and topped, 'pon my life, with a fine clump of sequin flower buds or just plain flowers. It may be daintily attached to your carefully planned coiffure with rhinestone hairclips—or a bit of a rubber band, but to be sure it must be attached—that is, if attachment is your aim!

It's in the bag! Or at least it will be there in between the times you're showing it off or taking it out to dab powder on your "tip-tilted" nose. New wooden compacts, round or square, on which your initials go in contrasting colors.

Your man Godfrey has been getting his cigarettes wrapped in cellophane now for a long time. But think what a jolt he'll get when his best girl steps out dressed in crisp and crinkly cellophane lace. Beautiful in black and various colors.

It's a find! Romantically reminiscent is a dinner gown of accra crepe suggesting the sumptuousness of prewar fashions with waistline dropped low and studded with sequins—it's skirt slashed daringly high!

Ribbed crepe is the thing for afternoon. Romantic moods are invoked with myriads of ribbed crepe dresses, soft and supple as velvet. In shining contrast to the dullness of the fabric you will have perhaps sequins or flowers gleaming at the throat. A number of these dresses can be found in one of your department stores on Whitehall street.

The big buildup may be achieved this year with accessory and jewelry changes. You'd be surprised what actually can be done. Using as a cornerstone a black crepe dress with adjustable sleeves and neck. For morning accessories you might try a wide corset belt and purse in green suede, a step-in pump of black suede and slip-on gloves of black doekin will complete the picture.

Afternoon additions. A twisted strand of pearls, black suede pumps, black envelope bag, six-button length gloves of black doekin. Black tricorn with veil dropping off one side.

For late afternoon, a bright tie-on belt, black suede step-in pumps with open shank and toe. Black suede bag, eight-button gloves, beaded monkey or black velvet.

A Grand Shoe For Knock-About Daytime Wear

A shoe styled exclusively for punishment and fun. One you can put on to "kick around" in. That's what you've been looking for, isn't it? One of your Peachtree stores is ready, willing and able to shoe you to your satisfaction with these new, perfectly darling gray trampers you've been reading about in Vogue and Harper's. With low and medium heels, these shoes are made of Bucko and can be had in brown, black, gray, green or blue. There's also a honey of a shoe you can get when the designer went "haywire with color" and gave it to us in a multi-colored combination.

There's beige, with medium and dark brown and gray combined with dark gray and dubonnet. Also dark brown suede with lighter tan trim. These you can have a glorious time matching with different accessories.

Then there's another—a spectator opera trim pump with built-up leather heel. Grand for street. An added attraction is their leather tips at tip and heel to prevent scuffing. To be worn with tweeds and street clothes. If you wear them all day you are then foot-ready for those high-heeled sandals at night.

The third discovery is an oxford. Another type the well-groomed will wear for her street costume if she is desiring co-ordination in dresses. All three of these shoes can be had in sizes up to 9 and in quadruple A to B width.

The Hollywood Looking Glass

Bonita Granville probably takes the words out of thousands of high school freshmen's mouths when she says, "It's hard to know how to dress when you're 14." However, she believes the elaborate wardrobe she has in the Warner Brothers picture, "Too Much of Everything," will solve the problem for a lot of other young ladies as it has for her.

There must be no long skirts, not even for evening, but that doesn't mean she can't have thrilling party frocks. One of them is white marquisette fashioned with full gathered skirt, short puffed sleeves and is worn over a pink taffeta slip. Another is pink print taffeta with a wide band of smocking at the waistline which repeats the colors in the print. This one has a Peter Pan collar of white silk edged in Val lace.

Among the less dressy clothes there is a navy taffeta, cut on princess lines, but nevertheless narrowly belted. It has short, flared sleeves, a Buster Brown collar of white silk pique and big patch pockets above the belt which are cut triangular shape and quilted in matching thread.

A rose-colored velveteen princess frock is a good winter suggestion. It has a little lacy collar, short puffed sleeves, narrow little side belts and tiny self-covered buttons from neck to hem. A camel's hair polo coat has a full swing back and pockets cleverly inserted in the front seams.

Joan Crawford at the preview of her own picture wearing black wool dress with very short skirt with high crowned Kelly green felt hat over which was posed dotted black veil. . . . Her coat of grey fox, collarless and with sleeves hitting midway between wrist and elbow.

Helen Vinson dancing at the Hawaiian Paradise with Fred Perry. Her brown net gown fitted to the knees and brown ruching applied from there to the hemline. . . . A brief cape to match and her only jewels a diamond belt clasp and two diamond clips at the V-neck. . . .

Kay Francis something to sing about when she came into the Trocadero garbed in gown of red and white striped chiffon and that long white fox cape. . . .

Concentrate on Your Figure if You Would Be Beautiful

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Wednesday.—I wonder if it is wise for any of us to read anyone's writings too consistently? No matter how able those who write may be, they seem occasionally to find it difficult to be consistent. This tends to give me, as a reader, the feeling that we are all of us swayed so much by our momentary impulses and interests that what we write at any time cannot be taken too seriously.

I am talking now as a reader and I don't question but that it would be possible to make the same criticism of me as a writer. I shall probably be swayed by the fact that I am more a painter of pictures and a reporter of unimportant events. The writers of whom I am speaking, from my standpoint as a reader, are those who interpret events and influence the public through their own expressions of opinion.

The following quotation is what inspired these thoughts: "One thing is certain: This is no time to call names. The country is less to be done. If the feeling of hatred and hostility, of exaggerated lack of confidence on both sides were diminished, that, of itself, would ease the crisis." I am in full and complete agreement, but I can hardly realize that the person who wrote these words is the same person whom I, as a reader, have been following for many months. I devoutly hope, however, that many other readers will agree with this present statement.

We seem to be in for a three-day rainstorm. It is not often that I envy people who are sick in bed, but when I was visiting a cousin yesterday afternoon, laid up with an attack of bronchitis, I could not help but be a little envious of the pleasant comfort of the room and the fact that there was no necessity for her to go out into our autumn storm. She probably wished she was feeling well enough to be going out. Such are the perversities of human nature.

Last night, for the second time, I visited Newark, N. J., in a rainstorm. I attended a dinner given by the Women's Trade Union League of New Jersey. If the size of the dinner and the enthusiasm of the guests is a measure of the interest of the community in the work of the league, I think this winter will see a great increase in the influence of league ideas and in the work which it can accomplish in the state.

It was pleasant to see a number of friends at the dinner. Among them, Mrs. Abram Elkus and her daughter, who sat directly in front of me, and Mrs. Garrison and Mrs. Walker from Llewellyn Park, who were not far away. I imagine there were others whom I was not able to identify.

Secretary Perkins drove back with us after dinner and we left her at the Pennsylvania station to take the midnight train back to Washington. When we walked into our apartment it was 12:45. Up this morning and breakfasted at 8 o'clock and caught a 9 o'clock train for Erie, Pa., where I am speaking tonight.

New Popularity for You When You Teach Yourself To Tap

YOU'RE IN DEMAND AT PARTIES, SHOWS.

Bravo for Kit—gaily tapping her foot forward by straightening the right knee. Let the ball of the foot strike the floor with a sharp sound.

But life's all fun to Kit these days—she's a hit at parties too—since she taught herself to tap dance. For teach herself she did—simple diagrams and instructions at home.

Tap dancing, she discovered, isn't at all as intricate as it looks. Even the flashing routines you see in the movies—the dances such as Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers do—are based on a few tap sounds simple to learn. You can do them easily. Begin with the front and back taps. Combine them in a shuffle as the diagram shows. To do the front tap, stand on the left foot, hold the right foot a few inches off the floor by bending the right knee. Kick the right

A Perfume and a Cologne of the Same Exciting Paris Daring

By LILLIAN MAE.

Events do create fashions in clothes. There's no doubting that. And inasmuch as women have since time immemorial looked to Paris for styles, it is not surprising that the great exposition in Paris should show its influence upon such necessary accessories as perfumes.

I am told that a great majority of women returning from this exposition on a recent sailing, had tucked in their bags at least one bottle of a new perfume—the most daring ever created by one of the really great French perfumers—dedicated to the exposition and the women from all parts of the world who flocked to the French capital for the event.

How unfortunate for those of us who were unable to go to Paris for the great showing of, among other things, the priceless jewels, fabulous furs and other treasures assembled for the occasion! And how fortunate were those of us whose friends remembered us with a small bottle of this inimitable French fragrance!

Send 15c for our booklet, SELF-INSTRUCTION IN TAP DANCING, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

The bottles, too, are works of art and ornamental for any dressing table. The perfume comes in flat crystal of ultra-modern design, encased, of course, in a plush-lined box. The cologne bottle has a round bowl base, rising into a long, slender throat with modernistic crystal stopper.

If you want to feel ultra-ultra and to have your friends all raving over the glamorous, irresistible odor which will cling to you for a long, long time, you'll lose no time in purchasing a bottle of either the new cologne or perfume to which I have become addicted.

Phone me at my office in The Constitution building if you wish to know the name of these items and the stores at which they may be purchased. If you do not live in Atlanta send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply.

AUDITORIUM REPAIR PLANS ARE DRAWN

Approval of Special Inquiry Board Is Required.

Plans for repairs to the city auditorium, to be made with the aid of WPA funds, were turned over to the special board of inquiry for approval yesterday by Dillon and Lewis, city architects.

Under terms of the agreement reached by council and the WPA, the board, composed of Robert G. Rose, Robert S. Fiske and Carl F. Nonnenaker, is required to approve drawings before the repairs can be started.

Councilman John A. White, chairman of the buildings committee, said it will be several weeks before work can start because materials must be purchased after the board approves the plans. The repairs are expected to cost approximately $33,000 and will take several months to complete.

INJURIES IN CRASH FATAL TO WOMAN

College President and Others Hurt in Collision.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 21.—(P)—One person was fatally injured, and President L. H. Browning, of Middle Georgia College, and several other persons were injured last night when an automobile in which he was riding, and a Wilkinson county school bus collided on the highway near Jeffersonville.

Mrs. Ossie Simms, of Jeffersonville, died at a hospital this morning. She was a passenger in the bus, which was en route to the State Fair here.

Dr. Browning was on his way home from the district G. E. A. meeting here. He received severe cuts about the face. His son, Bobbie, had a lacerated tongue.

Charles Toole III, also in the Browning car, was slightly hurt. Others in the bus were less seriously injured and no others required hospital attention.

FAMOUS FIGURES IN THE BEAUTY CONTEST.

If your hipline exceeds your bust measurement by more than two inches, take hope—so does the current Miss America's!

Miss Bette Cooper, of Hackettstown, N. J., literally ran away with the national honors in the Atlantic City contest. She is five feet, six and one-half inches tall, and weighs 120 pounds. She has a bust measurement of 32 inches; hips, 36 inches; and waist, 26 inches; thigh, 20 inches; calf, 13 inches; ankle, 8 1-2 inches. According to the accepted standards in symmetry, Miss Cooper's hip measurement is too large . . . or her bust too small. The rest of her measurements are very nearly perfect and she is an exceptionally pretty girl.

The Miss America of 1936 was ultra-streamlined. Miss Rose Veronica Coyle, of Philadelphia, who occupied the throne that year, had these measurements: Bust, 34 inches; waist, 23 1-2 inches; hips, 34 3-4 inches; calf, 13 inches; ankle, 8 1-2 inches. With her height of five feet four inches, these measurements represent perfection that a movie queen might envy.

The runner-up in this year's contest, Miss Alice Emerick, of Fort Worth, Texas, has a set of measurements somewhere between those of the two queens—and they are not at all bad: Bust, 34 inches; waist, 26 inches; hips, 36 inches; thigh, 20 inches; calf, 13 inches; ankle, 8 inches.

Miss Ruth Covington, of Charlotte, N. C., also named for second place in the contest, is beautifully proportioned: Height, five feet four inches; weight, 115 pounds; bust, 35 inches; waist, 23 1-2 inches; hips, 36 inches. During Miss Cooper's informal abdication, Miss Covington and Miss Emerick shared in her glory.

For the first time, talent entered into the requirements of the contestants. Beauty counted, of course, but it was no handicap if the contestant knew how to play the accordion, sing, or tap dance. A number of the contestants were adept tap and specialty dancers, and it is interesting to note that the girl whose hobby is acrobatics, tap dancing and high kicking, has a hip measurement one inch less than the bust. It is Frances LeSultan, of Virginia, who has this lovely figure: Height, five feet six inches; weight, 123 pounds; bust, 34 inches; waist, 24 inches; hips, 33 inches; thigh, 20 1-2 inches; calf, 13 inches; ankle, 8 1-2 inches. That's what high kicking will do for your hipline!

There is nothing like a beauty contest to establish definitely the close connection between exercise and pulchritude. Sports are the favorite recreation of these girls: they swim, ride horseback, go bicycling, play tennis and golf, and hike. And the composite Miss America for 1937 has a truly beautiful figure, with these measurements: Bust, 33 3-4 inches; waist, 25 inches; hips, 35 1-4 inches. The waistline is 8 3-4 inches less than the bust, and the hipline exceeds the bust by only 1 1-2 inches.

Atlanta Rates Tops in Efficiency at Georgia

Miss Polly Ramsey, of 371 Pinetree drive, named the most efficient co-ed to enter the University of Georgia this fall. Miss Ramsey scored 359 points on the standard placement test given each new student and was the only girl ranking in the five highest scorers. She is majoring in science.

Atlanta Girl at Georgia Rings Gong As Most Efficient Freshman Co-ed

Miss Sara Frances Ramsey Is Only One of Her Sex Among Five Highest Scorers in University's Placement Tests; Lacked Three Points of Heading List.

Miss Sara Frances Ramsey, of 371 Pinetree drive, won distinction as the most efficient co-ed entering the University of Georgia this fall even if a masculine rival scored a few more points than she did on the placement tests last Friday.

The tests are given first-year students shortly after the collegiate year begins and are repeated the following year to determine the advancement of the classes. This is the second year the system has been in practice. It also gives the professors an idea in which subjects their new pupils are most efficient.

She was the only girl to place among the five highest scorers, so there was no dispute to her title this year. She hopes there'll be none next year.

Lacked Three Points to Win.
Polly, as she is known to friends, lacked only two points of tying William White, of Richmond, who scored 361 points to top all freshmen. With three more points, she could have carried co-ed colors to victory in the race with the men. Polly is the daughter of Mr.

Thomasville Rates High.

Thomasville produced a girl and a boy who ranked right in there with the leaders. They followed next after Miss Virginia Peyton, of Athens, 308. They are Edgar Woody, 299, and Mary McDavid, 292.

Miss Betty M. Goldstein, of Atlanta, and Nancy Mason, of Kingston, R. I., tied for next honors with 274.

The tests were graded by the new scoring machine, which students now call "Rob, the robot."

some also strike the quarter hour and half hour.

The common clock, however, does not speak the time, and is not like the one of which I shall speaking today. The clock I have in mind can really talk!

There was a time when the Paris observatory was having a great deal of trouble because of telephone calls. People knew that the observatory could give the exact time. Hundreds of them called up during the day, and said, "Our clock is stopped—will you please tell us the exact time?" or "I have broken my watch and would like to know just what time it is."

Answers were given to the questions, but officials were worried because too much time was taken from their regular work. To meet the need of the Paris public, a man was employed just for the purpose of being able to tell the time to people who asked for it.

Monsieur Esclancon, one of the officials, said to himself:

"To hire a man to tell time to people who telephone is taking funds that we cannot really spare from our treasury. We need all our money to carry on the work of science. Why not invent a clock which will speak its own answers?"

Esclancon set to work, and at last produced a clock, or machine, which would do what he wanted done. It would talk as clearly as could be wished, and would answer a question any time of the day or night.

People in Paris learned that on a certain day they could find out the time from a talking clock by telephoning "Odeon 8400." There were more questions on that day than ever before. Thousands and thousands of answers were given by the clock.

"What time is it?" came the question.

"Eight hours, 12 minutes, 20 seconds," replied the clock, meaning, "12 minutes and 20 seconds past 8 o'clock." Of course, the questions and answers were in French.

Esclancon's invention made use of sound-film strips, one for hours, one for minutes and one for seconds. There were also "electric eyes" which did their work when the telephone number was called. As many as 30 persons could obtain answers at the same moment. During the past seven years, the talking clock of Paris has told the time in answer to more than 12,000,000 telephone calls.

COURT OPENS WAY

Permits Oil Companies To Present NRA Defense.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 21.—(P)—Federal Judge Stone opened the way today for attorneys representing 23 oil companies, charged by the government with a gasoline price-fixing conspiracy, to present a defense based upon the invalidated NRA and 1935 conditions in the oil industry.

In a one-hour informal discussion in open court, with more than 40 attorneys gathered about his desk, Judge Stone indicated that the defense has the right to attempt to show that the defendants acted in good faith, that the defense is entitled to show facts and circumstances surrounding their activities, and to go as far as it can to prove formal or apparent governmental authority for the oil companies' gasoline buying.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

When all other diplomatic efforts fail, Polish statesmen send Marie Walewska to plead for Napoleon's support of Poland. Marie and Napoleon fall deeply in love. She leaves her husband to join Napoleon for an idyllic winter. With the arrival of spring, Napoleon sets out on his Austrian campaign. Austria conquered, Marie rejoins him in Vienna. She is radiantly happy in the discovery that they are to have a child. However, before she can tell him this, he announces he will marry Princess Marie Louise in order to found a dynasty. Marie pleads against this course, warning him that his ambition will lead him to disaster. He is adamant, and she leaves him forever without telling him of their expected child. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT VI.

But even as they embraced, his messengers were riding hard toward Finkenstein with the news that the snow and ice had thawed, that the expedition to Austria must be on its way.

Marie sank back in her carriage, her momentary anxiety lost in the joyous thought that soon she would see her beloved. She was in Vienna at last! She smiled a happy, tender smile, thinking for the hundredth time how she would break to him her glorious news. Their winter idyll had been more than a romantic interlude. When her child came, they would have a lasting token of their love. She sighed happily at the prospect of the joy this news would give Napoleon; she hoped, for his sake, that their child might be a son.

The carriage finally arrived at Shoenbrunn, the Hapsburg Palace, which Napoleon, as conqueror now occupied, Duroc welcomed her.

Marie took a chair and waited in a fever of joy. The shadow of an approaching figure fell on her. "Countess," a voice called softly. Marie started. "Count Talleyrand!"

Talleyrand bowed. "The Emperor will be delighted to see you," he observed. "You will help him forget the shock of today's unprecedented experience, a man tried to shoot him."

Marie paled. "But why?" Talleyrand shrugged his shoulders. "Suppose," he answered with casual elegance, "suppose— heaven forbid—that the assassin had been successful. What then? The ruin of an empire—and that empire dependent upon one man!"

"The future would have died with him," whispered Marie. "Precisely," snapped Talleyrand. "Napoleon must have an heir." He paused, placing his next words carefully. "I hope your appearance in Vienna at this time will do nothing to hinder—" he stopped short as Duroc reappeared. Marie stared at Talleyrand in confusion. What was he trying to say to her? But Talleyrand, with a bow, was gone. She turned to follow Duroc who led the way to the Emperor's suite.

A moment later she found herself in Napoleon's arms.

"It's good to have you in my arms again," he whispered. "Keep me there," she sighed. With her forefinger she explored his face. "This line—it's deeper." She stroked his temple. "And you have three gray hairs."

"This is my fortieth birthday," he smiled. She caressed his cheek. "Do you realize this is the first time I've seen you on your birthday?"

In Paris there is mass at Notre Dame—a gala reception in the Tuilleries. You cease to be a man. You become an occasion.

"I'm as much the victim as the victor," he sighed. "Is it really so difficult to be you?" she teased.

"Not so long as you share my difficulties," he replied. "Come"—he took her hand—"let me introduce you to the Hapsburg magnificence."

Marie laughed gaily. "It's very impressive," she observed. She pointed to the gallery of portraits. "Philip II doesn't look very happy."

"Thrones are not the seat of happiness," he said, with a sigh. "Both you," she answered, "your throne is yourself; your genius; the love of the French people who gave it to you. Doesn't that make you happy?"

"I am happy," he said after a vaguely troubled pause. "And you?"

Her face glowed with love. "Come here, Napoleon," she whispered; she forced him gently into a chair. "Don't look at me," she pleaded, and knelt down beside him, placing her cheek to his. In her mind she tried to form the thousand and one phrases with which she had thought to tell him of their coming child.

"Marie," his voice broke tenderly in on her thoughts. "I need you. I need your love. I need your understanding."

"Whatever you want of me, my dearest," she whispered, "I shall find to give you."

He turned his face full to hers. "Marie," he started, then rose from his chair. "Marie, I am determined to found a dynasty. I must have an heir. I have decided to marry a princess of one of the royal houses of Europe."

She stared at him in stunned silence. He paced up and down the room, unaware of her, speaking his thoughts aloud. "I must have an ally I can count on. I can bring all my enemies to their knees as I have Austria only to see them struggle to their feet again to fight me. This can't go on forever. I can conquer their armies—but I cannot conquer their hate with artillery." He paused, his eyes glazed with his vision. "This day—in this castle—I decided to grant the Hapsburgs a peace I shall no longer have to enforce. To them I have been an adventurer, an upstart," he cried bitterly. "I must mingle my blood with theirs. Think! A son of Napoleon born of Hapsburg blood!" He smiled at her. "It is arranged. It is a fact. You must see it is wise—"

He ceased abruptly as he observed her tears for the first time. "Marie!" He rushed to help her to her feet. "Marie," he pleaded, "what do you say?"

Her thoughts turned bitterly to Talleyrand. This then, was what he had meant to tell her. A faint, barely audible sound broke through her lips. "Nothing?" he inquired in astonishment.

"If you were in my place, what would you say?"

"I am not a woman," he shouted in desperation. "I cannot put words into your mouth."

"Then—perhaps—there are no words."

"Marie. Understand, my dear, this changes nothing between us." He rushed on, frantically, desperately on the defensive. "I beg you, I implore you, Marie! Listen to me! This is an affair of state. My personal feelings are not involved. I love you. I want you near me always. You, yourself, promised at Walewiec. I've never seen the princess. This transference of ancient blood—is a necessity forced upon me—"

"Ancient blood?" she cried in horror. "Thin—cold—watery."

His face flushed in anger, but she continued with deadly calm. "A tomb. And you are going to live in it. A tomb. With a bride that hates you—a family who despises you. Do you think they will forget that you have beaten them? How they will hate you for forcing yourself upon them."

"Marie!" he cut in furiously. "The tears welled in her eyes. 'What has happened to you?' she wept. She seized his hand. 'What has changed you? What are you doing to yourself?—to me—to all who believed in you? Napoleon,' she pleaded, 'is there no other son you could love but one born of the royal blood you once despised?'"

"If he is to sit secure on the throne," Napoleon answered, "he must be of royal blood."

Marie's hands fell slowly to her side. She knew then she must keep locked within her the secret she thought would bring him joy—the secret that they were to have a child—a hoped-for son.

"Do you remember the days when an idea was stronger than a throne?" she asked desperately. "Do you remember the French Revolution?"

"The Revolution?" he shouted in anger. "That was a phase of my youth. I've outgrown it! That's what you don't see."

"What I do see," she wept, "is that everything that was between us is gone. This is the end."

"The end? Nonsense!" "You lied," she explained passionately. "You lied to yourself—to what you were—to what you promised the world—to all those who died for you believing in a new Europe. You lied. They are betrayed and I am betrayed. Power has corrupted you! Her eyes flashed. She pointed to the Hapsburg portraits on the wall. "These are your kind now, these Hapsburg faces. Bloodless. Cruel. The dead in life. Death on thrones. What a pity!" She laughed hysterically. "The liberator of Europe has become a son-in-law."

"I was a fool to expect understanding from a woman," he flashed. "Why are you staring at me like that?"

"Because," she answered slowly, "I am looking at you for the first and last time. You have crossed some frontier of the mind—into a region I do not understand—where I could never live peace."

With a helpless gesture of defeat she buried her face in her hands and rushed past him.

"Marie!" he called. Only the echo of her footsteps, carrying her forever out of the world he had destroyed for them both, answered him.

Napoleon married the Princess Marie Louise amid pomp and glory. And, as he hoped, a son was born to them. However, as if Marie's warning at Shoenbrunn had been clairvoyant, defeat followed him in every campaign during the three ensuing years.

One by one his armies failed against those of his enemies. It was his tragic march on Russia that definitely turned the tide. Soon all Europe rose against him: The Emperor became a prisoner, exiled to Elba.

For eight months he suffered his exile, his mind and heart burning with mad ambition. He must escape. He must somehow get back to France. Once in Paris, he was certain he could regain the love of the French people, and with their help, win back some part of his empire for his son, the young King of Rome.

If only he could see his son! His Empress had promised she would bring the child to him, but day followed day with no sign of their arrival.

RELENTLESS FIGHT UPON COMMUNISTS URGED BY PRELATE

Catholics Called To Combat
'Anti-Christ' in the Mission Field.

ROME, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Archbishop Celso Costantini, secretary of the congregation for the propagation of the faith, today called on Catholic missionaries to wage relentless combat against communism and not to limit themselves to prayers and devotions in that struggle.

The archbishop, whose position makes him one of the leaders of the church's far-flung missionary activities, spoke in the Gregorian University before a large audience of cardinals, other prelates and missionaries.

Condemns Communism.
Of the conflict between Catholic missions and Communism the archbishop said:

"A religious viewpoint that represents not only a denial of faith but is the antithesis of Christ is engaged today in an implacable war against the church throughout the world by written and spoken propaganda and by armed persecution more horrible than that of diabolism."

"From Europe, Bolshevism penetrates to mission fields, using methods of the most clever astuteness and efficiency."

Chinese Lauded.
Archbishop Costantini declared that in China, where Communism already has shown itself, the good sense of the Chinese people has revolted, and a movement toward conversion to Catholicism is in progress as it never was in the past."

The archbishop assailed Communism as "anti-Christ in the missions" and its propagandists as "missionaries of Satan." He urged missionaries to stress that all that is good and practicable in Communist doctrine has been "already found in the gospels."

SOVIET NOMINATES FIRST CANDIDATES

Stalin Is Put Forward As 'Leader of People' By Workers.

MOSCOW, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Soviet Russia's political leaders, Premier and President, were nominated today as the first candidates for election to the supreme Soviet under the new constitution.

Workers in a button factory and power plant in the Stalin section of Moscow unanimously adopted a resolution putting forward the name of Joseph Stalin, secretary of the central committee of the Communist party, as "leader of the people."

Vaschleslaff Molotoff, premier, or president of the Union Council of People's Commissars, was nominated by factory workers in the district named for him; Michael Kalinin, president of the All-Russian central executive committee, was nominated by workers in the Leningrad factory district where he formerly worked.

The tone of the resolutions indicated the candidates nominated thus far, particularly Stalin, would be unopposed, although other names may be advanced until November 12 for the election December 12 on which 569 places are to be filled.

In addition to the regular stage show the Reese School of Personality will offer a football prologue, "Pigskin Follies," featuring 35 students of the school ranging in ages from 3 to 15, all doing the Big Apple dance.

Paul Muni at Fox In 'Life of Emile Zola'

Paul Muni, whose most recent film, "The Story of Louis Pasteur," won for him the coveted gold statuette of the Motion Picture Academy as the best actor of 1936, comes to Fox theater today in another epic story, "The Life of Emile Zola." The Zola movie is declared to excel even the previous masterpiece.

Muni plays Zola. Another splendid actor, Joseph Schildkraut, portrays the unfortunate Dreyfus. The rest of the cast is practically all-star. Gale Sondergaard, who had such a sensational success in "Anthony Adverse," is Madame Dreyfus; Gloria Holden is Madame Zola, and Erin O'Brien-Moore is "Nana," the girl of the streets about whom Zola wrote his first great novel. Fifty sets were built for "The Life of Emile Zola" and nearly 5,000 players were used in its scenes.

CIO Attacks Maritime Board Following Trouble
Aboard U. S. Freighter.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Labor troubles aboard the S. S. Algic, 8,000-ton government-owned freighter, became tonight the focal point of a new dispute over marine labor organization.

The Algic docked at Baltimore yesterday after a South American voyage on which Captain Joseph Gainard threatened to throw crew leaders into irons to put an end to a strike that broke out at Montevideo, Uruguay.

With an investigation started today by the Bureau of Maritime Inspection, the National Maritime Union, a CIO affiliate, entered the dispute tonight with a statement attacking the investigation, the maritime commission, which controls the vessel, and Commission Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy.

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 21.—(AP)—

Union dock workers returned to their jobs in Tampa and Miami today with agreement upon a truce in the six-day strike at southern ports.

Tampa overseas shippers and longshore union officials signed a tentative agreement for an eight-hour day, an increase of 10 cents an hour for straight time and 15 cents for overtime.

Spokesmen said they expected union men to resume loading of about 30 strikebound vessels tomorrow in Jacksonville, Savannah, Ga., Charleston, S. C., and Wilmington, N. C., under the 15-day truce.

Tech's Season Rests Largely on Outcome of Auburn Game

The Poor Football Player Has Never Heard of an Eight-Hour Day

What does your football player do when he isn't playing football?
We'll go around the clock at Georgia Tech with a typical day.

7 A. M.—Alarm goes. Sleeps 15 minutes. Rises from bed, washes face (neglecting ears), pulls on socks, pants, sweater and shirt and makes pass at hair with comb.
7:30 A. M.—At breakfast in mess hall where lines up in cafeteria with other students and gets food on tray.
8 A. M.—Sits in math class and tries to learn calculus or trig.
9 A. M.—In physics class. Wishes apple which dropped on Newton's head had been coconut. A good heavy one.
11 A. M.—Reports for drill and for one hour does squads right and left—hay-foot, straw-foot—with an 11-pound rifle on his shoulder.
12 Noon—Dashes into football lecture room and watches Coach Alexander make X's and O's on blackboard. Hears discourse on offense and defense.
12:30 P. M.—Back at mess hall for lunch.
1 P. M.—Goes to biology or history class, or some class missed in drill period.
2 to 4 P. M.—In biology or chemistry or physics lab.
4:03 P. M.—Reaches dressing room and begins to put on armor and uniform.
4:30 P. M.—Walks four blocks to football practice field and practices until—6 P. M.—Practice halted. Walks four blocks to dressing room, bathes and at—6:30 P. M.—Back at the mess hall for dinner. Eats enough for a horse and immediately begins to relax and feel sleepy.
7 P. M.—Study hour begins. Player feels very sleepy and longs for bed but has to study because the professors do not mind making ineligible a football player.

There is no eight-hour day for the football player. He plays football. He may get his room and board and tuition for so doing. But it seems to me he earns it.

On Saturday morning the football player attends classes until noon.

And while everyone else may be thinking about the game he usually has himself a nice little quiz in some tough subject. The professors, most of whom are interested in the game, want to keep thinking about it, so they give quizzes. They can then sit still and meditate on the game.

IN THE DRESSING ROOM.

Getting a team ready for the field—even on peace-time days, is quite a task.

Yesterday one lad was having made for his left thumb a

TECH HIGH BEATS COMMERCIAL, 6-0, ON 26-YARD PASS

Teams Threaten in Every Quarter; Smithies Make 11 First Downs.

A fighting Commercial High team, doped to lose by several touchdowns, sprang the greatest surprise of the prep season and held Tech High to a 6-to-0 victory Thursday night before some 6,000 spectators at Ponce de Leon park.

It was by far the best game of the season here, with both teams threatening every quarter, but lacking the goal line punch except on one occasion.

Tech High scored on the last play of the first quarter when Harry Nichols passed 26 yards to Childrey over the goal for the touchdown. The try for the point was blocked.

The Smithies threatened late in the second quarter and drove to the seven-yard line, but was turned back when a passing attack was grounded.

Commercial drove to Tech High's three-yard line late in the third quarter, but a sweeping end running attack was turned inside for no gain and the Smithies immediately kicked out of danger.

Failing to gain a single first down in the third quarter, which was all in favor of Commercial, Tech High drove some 60 yards in the fourth quarter, but was stopped far short of a touchdown. The Smithies took the ball on their own 20-yard line after intercepting a Commercial pass behind the end zone.

Tech High made no attempt to run with the ball and it was ruled a touchback, although many in the stands thought it a safety for the Red Raiders. Tech High put the ball in play on the 20 and ran up three successive first downs, but were soon checked just beyond midfield.

Tech High outgained Commercial 11 to 5, first downs, and that was all the Smithies had to be proud of.

Commercial checked Tech High's end running and off tackle plays, particularly near the goal line and outkicked and outtoughed Tech High after the first four plays of the game. And Commercial had only a couple of substitutes to take part in the game, so well did the starting line-up perform.

THE LINE-UPS. TECH HI (6) Goodman L.E. Timberlake, Weller L.G. K. H. Hood, Manis L.G. T. Harrison, Sheppard R.G. Williams, Nash R.T. Lee, Bishop R.E. Childrey, Jackson R.E. Nichols, Castiel Q.B. Plante, Spratling L.H. Pair, Bradford F.B. C. Harrison, Commercial Tech High Touchdown, Childrey.

Fulton High Beats Richardson, 25 to 6.

The Fulton High eleven defeated Richardson school, 25 to 6, last night on the Russell High field at College Park.

Fulton talked once in the first period, again in the second, and twice in the fourth for their 26 points. Richardson scored her lone touchdown in the third period.

Rome Pass Beats North Fulton, 7-0.

ROME, Ga., Oct. 21.—A pass from Primm to Smith over the goal line in the second quarter here tonight, enabled the Rome High school eleven to defeat North Fulton High, of Atlanta, 7-0. The point-after was added by Quigg's placement.

The touchdown pass was the climax of a drive which started on the Atlanta's 47-yard line.

Duckpin Tourney Opens November 6

The fifth annual southern individual duckpin championships for men and women, scheduled for the Atlanta alleys on November 6, will draw a large and top average field of bowlers from the important duckpin centers from the south.

The world's champion women's team, winners of the national tournament last spring, will make the trip from Charlotte to compete for the title. Members of this team, who rolled up a total of 1,635 to win top honors, include Marie Hutchings, Lib Bradshaw, Lucille Hutchings, Nell Powell and Ida Ryan.

Helen Randlett, the No. 2 ranking woman bowler of the United States, is entered from Richmond, Va. Lois Clouston, teammate of Miss Randlett's, won the women's event two years ago. Miss Randlett was runner-up to Mrs. Estelle Warrington, last year's winner.

Carl Tidwell, last year's champion, has filed his entry and will participate under the Rome colors this year. S. Romano will make the trip from the north Georgia city with Tidwell.

Bush Is Offered Job as Bees' Pilot

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 21.—(P)—Donnie Bush, manager of the Minneapolis American Association baseball club, said today he had been offered the management of the Boston National league club.

He conferred with President Mike Kelley, of the Minneapolis club.

"The Boston job is mine if I say the word," Bush said. Kelley assured him, Bush said, he could keep his Minneapolis job "as long as I own the club," but said he would not stand in the way of Bush's advancement.

PETRELS MEET ERSKINE TODAY

Coach John Patrick will send his Oglethorpe Stormy Petrels against Erskine College in an out-standing S. I. A. A. football game today in Anderson, S. C. The contest, originally slated to be played tonight, was moved up to 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Comparative strength of the two teams by the scores of their contests with Wofford College this season seems to be about even. Oglethorpe defeated the Terriers, 7 to 0, while Erskine came out on top, 12 to 7.

Probable starting lineup for the Petrels is: Captain Owens and Petos at ends; Zelenick and Weems at tackles; H. Axleberg and Stewart at guards; Piggo at center; Thomas at quarterback; Murphy and Schwabe at halves, and Martin Kelly at full.

Baby Girl Born To Rex Enright

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 21.—Coach Rex Enright announced tonight that in 1953 he will offer a candidate for cheer leader at the University of Georgia.

Her father, who is Georgia's popular backfield coach, left the gym early after the workout today.

Clemson Tramples Gamecocks, 34 to 6

Tigers Use Plain Power Attack as Willis Scores Twice; 20,000 See Game.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 21.—(P)—Clemson College used a plain power attack today and crushed a light University of South Carolina football team, 34 to 6, in gaining its fourth straight victory in the annual state fair game.

The crowd of almost 20,000 had hardly settled when the Gamecocks got their only touchdown. They took a punt on the Tiger 41, bumped the line for a first down and then Clary passed to Simpson in the end zone for the touchdown.

The remaining 57 minutes brought on a parade of Clemson talents. The Tigers' running and passing brought two touchdowns in the first period, one in the third and two in the fourth.

Willis' hard rushes through the line brought the scores in the first period after the Tigers had pounced on South Carolina fumbles. Pearson ran around end and centered 28 yards for the third period score and a pair of substitutes added the touchdowns in the last quarter. Coleman, relief fullback, battered over from short range to cap a 28-yard march, and B. E. H., substitute halfback, bounced over from the three. Pearson converted three extra points from placement and McFadden made one the same way.

The Tigers registered 17 first downs to three, and made 201 yards by rushing to 56 for the Birds.

It was Clemson's 22d victory in the 35-game series that started in 1896. South Carolina has won 12 and one game was scoreless.

Thrash and Gilmer Put on Show; Tigers Arrive Today.

By JACK TROY. "Auburn" marched through Georgia Tech yesterday at the Rose Bowl field.

Attacking by land, the Tech "Bees," impersonating Auburn and with Gay Thrash and Bud Gilmer acting as the spearhead of the onslaught, drove 50 yards to a touchdown.

It was the first appearance of the varsity in scrimmage this week and the "Bees," who play Middle Georgia College, of Cochran, at Rose Bowl field today, made the most of it.

So furious was the play of the "Auburn" team that Bill Jordan, Tech's great end, was knocked cold on one play and retired from the scene of battle.

Big Bill "OUT." Big Bill was dazed by a blow on the head and soon recovered his faculties. But for the time being he was "out."

Taking heart on this superhuman showing of strength, the Bees continued to pound the varsity mercilessly.

Of course, it was a case of the varsity "never coming to bat." It was all defensive scrimmage for the regulars.

Thrash, running at right halfback, did some very fine running off tackle. He picked his spots well. And the spots were there. The Bee line opened some holes. And when the Bees needed two or three yards, Gilmer, who is about the size of Dutch Heath, Auburn's fullback, got them on line bucks.

GILMER CRASHES.

Gilmer, it was, who finally crashed the line for one yard and the touchdown. He had put on a lot of punch into the sustained march, impersonating Mr. Dutch Heath, Auburn's Flying Dutchman.

Physically, the Tech varsity is bouncing back after that terrific combat of last Saturday. And Saturday the boys should be feeling right for another tough game of football.

Captain Fletcher Sims and Harry Appleby were held out of the rough work yesterday as they have been all week. Glenn Cushing also watched the action from the sidelines. His injured shoulder is coming around okay and he will be ready for Auburn.

The way things have gone in national football this season, a tie game or a single defeat is not enough to knock a team out of the picture.

TECH IN GOOD SHAPE.

Hence, Tech is in a very good position. There are only some 20 major teams in the unbeaten and untied class right now and this list will be trimmed in half after Saturday.

And the month of November is not even here.

So Tech is in a good spot. The Engineers can move smartly ahead and recapture all of their lost ground, perhaps, by winning Saturday.

It will take a lot to beat Auburn. And the burden is strictly on Tech because, while the Jack-ets were battling for their lives against the Blue Devils, the Tigers of the Plains were having a comparatively easy game against Mississippi State.

Still, the opportunity to have a great season is still at hand. And a victory Saturday would be a long stride in the right direction.

The Auburn team will arrive today and work out on Grant field during the afternoon. All Auburn's regulars are intact and ready for the battle.

An afternoon of aerial warfare is in prospect. And ticket sales indicate another great crowd.

Two Atlantans Included On Auburn Squad.

AUBURN, Ala., Oct. 21.—A quintet of Georgia boys, Guards Ralph "Touchdown" Sivell, Chipley, and Walter Chandler, Columbus, and Halfbacks George Kenmore, Americus, Norman Perry and Bill Ellis, both of Atlanta, will lead a squad of 36 Auburn grid-ers to Atlanta Friday morning for a Southeastern conference joust with the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets on Grant field Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Tigers will arrive in Atlanta shortly after noon Friday and will hold a light workout at Grant field a few hours after arriving in the Gate City.

He added that "Moses, Johnson, Werber and a few others are not for sale or trade."

Mack said the club made money last season for the first time in five years. It finished in seventh place.

CONFERENCE CHAMPIONSHIPS.
NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Saturday's football menu is thick with games that should play a big part in conference championships or sectional rankings. The leading conference jousts are Auburn-Georgia Tech and Vanderbilt-L. S. U. in the south, with Tulane-North Carolina in different circuits.

Far West—California-Southern California; Stanford-Washington; U. C. L. A.—Washington State; Oregon-Oregon State.

Southwest—Baylor-Texas A. & M.; Arkansas-Southern Methodist. East—Harvard-Dartmouth; Yale-Cornell; Villanova-Bucknell. Missouri Valley—Nebraska-Missouri.

Rocky Mountain—Colorado-Colorado State.

Big Ten—Ohio State-Northwestern.

Intersectional—T. C. U.-Fordham; Notre Dame-Navy; Colgate-Duke; Pitt-Wisconsin; Boston College-Detroit; Boston U.-Western Reserve; Syracuse-Maryland.

THE ROUNDUP.
Harvard-Dartmouth at Cambridge—Two unbeaten teams, Dartmouth's first hard test. Therefore, even more of a guess. Harvard has more experience. Harvard has been under Navy's heavy fire. Harvard.

T. C. U.-Fordham at New York—Two strong lines, two green backfields. T. C. U.'s passing game against Fordham's better running. Both teams stronger defensively than offensively. Stand-off. Call it a draw. An edge to Fordham.

Yale-Cornell at New Haven—Pek's difference in line chances. Both have good lines. Yale has much better backfield. Frank, as usual, is vital factor. Yale.

California-Southern California at Berkeley—At the season's start, California's big, veteran team was picked as best on western coast, with Southern Cal close by. This should be high spot of Pacific conference—A Rose Bowl headline. California in a hard one.

Auburn-Georgia Tech at Atlanta—Two of the south's best. Tech has dangerous passing and running attack. Auburn has Hitchcock. Auburn stronger defensively. Tech's attack scored three touchdowns against Duke. Hard game to pick—but nod to Georgia Tech.

Texas A. & M.-Baylor at College Station—Baylor has been the Southwest surprise where Arkansas and Texas A. & M. drew higher ratings earlier in fall. Both unbeaten. Baylor about due for

CAPTAIN BOND WILL BE SEEN AT FULLBACK

Decatur Plays Marist at Decatur; Poets Battle Cadets at Macon.

By ROY WHITE.

Two outstanding games will be offered Atlanta's prep football fans tonight, when Boys' High battles Miami High at 8 o'clock at Ponce de Leon park and Decatur plays Marist College at 7:30 o'clock at Decatur.

Russell High plays Cartersville High at 7:30 o'clock under the lights at East Point in another interesting prep scrap, as G. M. A. journeys to Macon to play the Lanier High Poets.

That Boys' High-Miami game will be well worth the while and a revenge scrap for the Purples. Last Thanksgiving day Miami broke a 33-game winning streak for Boys' High in a 7-to-0 victory over the Purples and also cost Boys' High three halfbacks, who were injured in the first quarter.

Captain Flip Bond, the player of all positions, will return to his old post as fullback tonight. Injuries to Frank Boykin and Conner necessitated the change. Dick McCauley, injured tackle, returned to the team this week and will start tonight, but his ankle is still not in the best of condition. Both Boykin and Conner will be in uniform but will not be used much.

OFF INJURY LIST.

Rayle, center and Conger, end, also came off the injured list and will see service in the game tonight.

Boys' High will center their attack on Schmar, big Miami High end who has been shifted to the backfield. He scored the touchdown which beat the Purples last year and in the last week's game with Savannah, Schmar gained more than 200 of 300 yards gained by Miami High.

The Miami team will arrive early this morning and will be given a sight-seeing tour of the city before the game. A dinner is planned immediately after the game tonight and tomorrow the visitors will be guests of Boys' High at the Tech-Auburn game at Grant field.

TO START BEST.

Coach Doyal is taking no chances with his former two team system and will start the strongest combination possible, of Conger and Willey, ends; McCauley and Brown, tackles; Pearce and Huck, guards; Webb, center, and Miller, Greer, Crouch and Bond in the backfield.

Marist, Decatur in N. G. I. C. Tilt

Marist and Decatur will battle for a top position in the North Georgia Interscholastic conference race. Decatur holds the title with Commercial and along with Marist, Commercial, Griffin and Spalding High, are tops at present.

The winner of tonight's Marist-Decatur game will have the inside track and may be the team to beat for the championship.

Russell, after a 31-to-6 defeat by Commercial last week, should rebound into the win column against Cartersville tonight at East Point.

Lanier High, well on the road to another state championship, should have little trouble in winning from G. M. A. tonight at Macon.

CYCLISTS PLAN SAFETY DRIVE
The Dixie Motorcycle Club and the Atlanta motorcycle policemen joined hands last night in inaugurating a safety program for reducing the number of accidents among motorcycle riders at a banquet honoring the policemen at the Atlantan hotel.

The Dixie Club is one of the 753 charter members of the American Motorcycle Association. President Clarence Pearce acted as master of ceremonies at the dinner last night. Short talks were given by Secretary Russell Bergh, Treasurer Walt Cunningham, Vice President Marlin Hicks, Guy Cunningham and Roy Norton, all of the club.

Captain Jack Malcom, of the Atlanta traffic department, delivered the after-dinner address. He stressed the need of organization, co-operation and courtesy during the campaign.

Other members of the police department to speak were Leo Nahlik, Harry Maddox, Dudley Ethridge, Marvin Thomas, H. Betsil and Motorcycle Policeman Kressey.

Negro Grid Teams End Practice Today

Morris Brown and Morehouse College, two of Atlanta's leading colored football teams, each boasting an undefeated record, will taper off practice today for their game Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Ponce de Leon park.

Coaches Nicks, Lockhart and Graves, of the Wolverine coaching staff, sent their men through a long workout Thursday afternoon. They were putting special stress on their secondary defense that in former games was weak.

Coaches Forbes, Smith and Archer, of the Maroon Tigers, went about building a defense to halt what critics have called the greatest and most deceptive running attack in the south.

OFFENSE CLICKS AS MEHRE WORKS HARD FOR BEARS

Salisbury and Johnson Likely To Start at Guards for Bulldogs.

By FELTON GORDON.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 21.—The Georgia Bulldogs topped off a three-day period of chutes known as "bearing down for the Bears" with another tough scrimmage this afternoon.

Completing one of the most severe and successful weeks of drills since the season began, the varsity literally ran wild against the scrubs. The result was that the afternoon's skirmish netted some 10 touchdowns. It proved that the Red and Black offense seems to be clicking at last.

Coach Harry Mehre indicated that with the exception of the guard posts he will probably start his first varsity against Coach Lake Russell's Mercer Bears Saturday. Smiley Johnson and Bob Salisbury, who have developed into a dependable pair, will likely open the encounter at the guard spots.

TOUGH OPPOSITION.

The Bulldogs have been reading with interest the "Bear" stories from the Mercer camp this week. They remember that during the past few years the Macon boys have furnished plenty of tough opposition.

The Bulldogs will be seeking to make it their 19th victory in as many games with Mercer.

On defense the varsity showed considerable holding power against the Red Devils. Particularly, was this true when Bill Hartman was in the lineup. He performed as defensive fullback with Dooley Matthews running at the left halfback post. It is likely that Hartman will continue helping back up the line on defense if Matthews shows a weakness at this point.

Oliver Hunkcutt, Coot Vandiver, Hartman, Billy Mims and Jimmy Fordham were the stars of the offensive play this afternoon.

The Lone Star State Abounds in Grid Aces

Kid Clay Highly Impressed by Size of High School Players Who Haven't Grown Up.

By JACK TROY.

"Where do they get that stuff," demanded Kid Clay, "The Lone Star State? Why let me tell you . . ."

It seems that Alva, the Kid, had returned from a scouting expedition to Dallas, Texas, where he saw Southern Methodist's Mustangs and the Vanderbilt Commodores play a game of football.

"Why, I saw high school teams out there that have more size and manpower, apparently, than they have here at Tech."

"And Southern Methodist's men—why, man, they are giants. I can't imagine where all those big men come from."

"Texas is the coming state," he continued, turning to Scout Roy McArthur. "That's where we belong, Roy. They've got everything out there—money, men and enthusiasm to burn."

"And I think when they really get all that manpower organized—football is sort of new now—it's going to be a case of Katy, bar the door."

"The high school teams come to pay tribute to college players from their schools and bring along the bands. And they put on a real show between halves."

"I frankly was overcome by the magnificence of it all and especially the size of those high school players who haven't even grown up."

"Man, oh, man. Look out for that Lone Star state. I like that designation—the Lone Star state. They've got more football stars out there than you can shake a stick at."

The Kid was still shaking his head when it came time for Tech to go out and practice.

Some Short Shorts Of Auburn Football

Thumbing through a few of the thumbnail sketches of Auburn football, one is reminded that

Coach Jack Meagher has a 16-year coaching record of 105 victories, 54 losses and 2 ties. . . . Not bad, not bad. . . . Line Coach Dell Morgan, an outstanding tackle in college—he played for Austin in Texas—is noted for his forward walls. . . . They usually are airtight. . . .

TARZAN UNDER FIRE

No. 5

In high spirits the little party crossed the void and entered the dark corridors of the forest. Dick and Doc followed Tarzan closely, drinking in every word of jungle lore that fell from his lips. Pretty soon, they thought, they would be real junior Tarzans.

The mighty jungle Lord taught them how to stalk game, and instructed them in the fine points of archery. Both were apt pupils, and on the fifth day of their journey it was Dick who provided a fine dinner by bringing down a quick young antelope at a water hole.

On the fifteenth day of their leisurely travels, the dim trail they followed widened suddenly and flowed into a clearing, where stood a small palisaded village. Tarzan, as usual, was intrigued. "We shall see what kind of people live here," he said quietly.

"They might be hostile—or, I mean—they might be rather unfriendly," Dick faltered. "Of course, I'm not afraid, or anything," Doc put in, "but maybe they're cannibals, and I was thinking—"

"We shall see," Tarzan said confidently. "Come!"

BREAK O' DAY

heavy guard of sponge rubber and tape.

"What was the matter?"

"Well, in the Duke game someone stepped on his thumb and yanked the nail right out of there."

"Did he stop playing?"

"He did not."

"And he is practicing every day?"

"Sure. What's a pulled-out thumb nail? It's true the Spanish Inquisition used to do little things like that but after all, this is football."

Another boy was having his ribs taped up with a bandage a half foot wide. It wound around and around, fitting like a lady's girdle.

Mr. William Alexander was putting the elastic bandage about the boy.

"You ought to design the ladies a new girdle," suggested a newspaper man. The newspaper men always stand around and make remarks to Mr. Alexander.

"Maybe I will," said Mr. Alexander. "This one looks nice."

Maybe you'd like to know why the boy needed a girdle.

Well, his lower rib—the little short one you can feel down there—was driven in so hard it banged against his liver. They bandage it so the rib won't be loose.

Here and there charley horses were getting their daily rub-down. There was the reek of liniment and of tape and rubbing oil.

Every player is carefully checked. Bruises, a torn finger-nail, all scratches, get careful attention.

THE PLAIN MEN.

The Plainmen of Auburn or Plain Men. They don't get an awful lot in the papers about themselves because they play their games away from home. They arrive on Friday morning or afternoon, take a little practice, and hie themselves to their hostelry and bed.

Yet each Saturday they come up all primed for a football game. They never seem to have a let-down.

Out at Tech there is a great deal of worry. Tech shot the works against Duke. Tech went out to win that one and they threw everything they had into the game. They held back nothing. Many of the men played 60 minutes. Or thereabouts.

Tech lost. The team suffered a terrific let-down. It was battered and it had lost.

Auburn, keyed to a high pitch for Mississippi State, won easily. It was possible to substitute often. The regulars were not worn out playing 55 or 60 minutes of bruising, relentless play.

Auburn won. And Auburn will come to Tech fresh and ready for the game of their lives.

The big question is—Can Tech bounce back? Is the human form and mind resilient enough to send Tech out there as set as they were for Duke?

A REAL SHOCK.

That Clemson-South Carolina score of yesterday was quite a score.

Except to South Carolinians, who take their state football as seriously as their religion, the game was not of prime importance. Clemson had been defeated by Tulane, the Army and by Georgia. South Carolina had been tied by North Carolina and defeated by Georgia and Alabama.

Georgia had a fairly difficult time with Clemson and South Carolina, showing no consistent offense.

And then Clemson comes along with an offense which runs up 36 points on South Carolina in a game which should have found both teams keyed to a high pitch. Clemson, apparently, was.

The game indicates Georgia has a very stout defense and an offense which is yet to reach an effective peak. South Carolina was able to check Georgia's offense. Clemson ran wild. Clemson couldn't handle Georgia's defense.

The game was a shock out at the Tech Flats. Last year the Clemson Tigers came along and defeated the Jackets. They bob up on the schedule this year just after Tech has played, on successive Saturdays, Duke, Auburn and Vanderbilt.

Clemson has Wake Forest ahead before meeting Tech. The Jackets can't let down that day. Even if they are leg and mind weary.

INJUNCTION BLOCKS BROAD EXTENSION BY HIGHWAY BOARD

Temporary Order Issued on Petition Attacking Special Act of Legislature.

The State Highway Board yesterday was temporarily enjoined from proceeding further with its plan for the extension of Broad street in Atlanta from Mitchell street to the junction of Forsyth and Whitehall streets.

The injunction, made returnable November 13, was issued by Judge Eschel Graham at McRae on petition of F. M. Gaisert, of Spalding county, acting as "a citizen and a taxpayer." Judge Graham will hear arguments on an appeal for a permanent injunction on November 13.

The order of the Telfair superior court was served on Chairman W. L. Miller, of the highway board, yesterday. The board chairman referred the matter to the department of law without comment. Assistant Attorney General Glen Thomas said there would be no statement until the allegations in the petition were studied.

Special Act Attacked.
The plea was laid before Judge Graham by Judge L. P. Goodrich, of the law firm of Beck, Goodrich & Beck, of Griffin. It attacks the special act of the general assembly of 1937 directing the highway board to proceed with the extension program on the ground that the assembly cannot by specific act issue a mandate to the highway board to perform a certain function which is covered in the general act creating the board.

Judge Goodrich, in explaining the petition, said that the act of the assembly, sponsored by the Fulton delegation, makes it mandatory on the board to complete the project, whereas the general act proscribes that all such projects are left within the discretion of the board.

"We hold the act is unconstitutional in that it is not an amendment to the general highway act and, therefore, the assembly cannot give the highway board any such mandate," Judge Goodrich said.

Completion Still Possible.
The Griffin lawyer went on to explain that he saw no reason why the project could not be completed ultimately even if the supreme court upholds his client's contention. It was pointed out that even if the 1937 act is held invalid the Fulton delegation in the legislature later could amend the Neill-Traylor act setting up the highway department by adding the Broad street extension to the state's primary road system and the board, using its discretionary powers, could complete the job whenever it saw fit.

Proceeding under the act challenged at McRae yesterday the highway board has launched condemnation proceedings in the Fulton superior court to acquire right of way necessary for the extension. It is expected that these proceedings will be held up pending final adjudication of Gaisert's petition.

2 Rum Speeders Flee Smashups, Leaving Cargoes

Two speeding whisky cars were seized by city and county police yesterday after crashes into an automobile and a street car.

County police early yesterday received a call to investigate an accident at Holley street and North avenue. They found an abandoned car containing 167 gallons of whisky almost completely demolished.

Witnesses told police the whisky car was speeding down North avenue at a "reckless" pace when M. H. Wallace, of 88 West Lake avenue, turned into North avenue from Holley street. The speeding car crashed into Wallace's car, and the driver jumped out and fled, police were told.

Since no police car was chasing the car, county authorities believed the car was fleeing hijackers or else was a hijacking car. A carload of four negroes crashed into the rear of a street car on Stewart avenue near Elbert street late yesterday. The negroes jumped out and escaped on foot, city police who investigated were told. The car was seized as a whisky car, along with a small quantity of "corn" liquor.

Market Slump Hurt Popularity, A. B. C. Told.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—(AP)—News-papers and business paper divisions of the Audit Bureau of Circulations recommended to the organization's annual convention today that free circulation publications be denied admission to the bureau. Several hundred publishers, advertising managers and agency executives attending the bureau's 24th annual meeting were scheduled to act formally on the question tomorrow.

Dr. George Gallup, New York research analyst, told the convention that the recent slump in the stock market would "have an almost immediate effect" on President Roosevelt's personal popularity.

Discussing a chart of public reaction to major acts and policies of the President, Dr. Gallup said the chief executive's personal popularity reached a peak after his South American good will tour, slumped with the supreme court reorganization plan and rose again when he made his recent north-west trip.

ACT IS REJECTED

Coal Operators Attack Pennsylvania Compensation.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(UP)—Operators representing a majority in anthracite production have decided to reject the workmen's compensation act of Pennsylvania as amended by the last session of the legislature, a statement released through the Anthracite Institute disclosed tonight.

The statement said that the "original concepts of the act have been stretched far beyond its original purpose, so that it now imposes burdens that the anthracite industry cannot bear."

Representatives of the majority group said that some operators began notifying employees today that they will reject the act, which is to become effective January 1, 1938.

JOHN LEWIS AIMS AT THIRD PARTY

Gears Non-Partisan League for 1938 Elections.

(Copyright, 1937, by United Press.) WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—John L. Lewis tonight placed his labor's Non-Partisan League on what appeared to be a third party basis and pointed it toward the 1938 congressional elections.

The CIO chieftain, who is chairman of the league, has drafted charters which soon will be issued to local NPL units and the latter are expected to operate on a dues-paying plan.

The league claims an "inactive membership" of 3,500,000 and an additional 32,000 workers who are now engaged in an organization drive.

The league, it was learned, is being geared for a fight in 1938 to elect its own congressional and state candidates in areas where feels strong and to join liberal forces in weaker sectors to battle suitable nominees of the other parties.

Anglers' licenses were purchased by 5,832,448 persons in the United States during 1935-36, setting a new all-time high. These fishermen spent $8,002,000 for licenses.
